CORNELL BOAT RACE FAVORITE

Facts About the Races.

Freshman eight-oared race starts at 7:45 a. m.—Cornell, Syracuse, Columbia, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania.

Varsity four-oared race starts at 3 p. m.—Cornell, Columbia, Syracuse, Pennsylvania.

Varsity eight-oared race starts at 5 p. m.—Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Cornell, Syracuse, Columbia.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 2.—The husky oarsmen of five universities girded themselves for their annual regatta on the Hudson river here to-day. Rising with the lark, each athlete found a perfect day dawning. A stiff breeze raised the white caps on the ruffled surface of the historic old river during the early morning hours. The coaches shook their heads at this. It meant that there would be little likelihood of any broken records such as were looked forward to over level water.

Promise of this was made in the widely spread rumors that both Cornell and Syracuse had the best crews of their whole history. Many hearts were accordingly gladdened when the breeze lightened considerably around 10 o'clock. It was blowing then straight southward down the course for all three races of the day.

From the various camps none but the best reports came prior to the hour set for the first race, the varsity four at 3 o'clock. Every man was in good physical condition and anxious for the struggle so long prepared for, so short in duration.

Holders of tickets for seats on the West Shore accommodation train began to arrive at the starting point soon after noon.

Cornell is a strong favorite in the betting on the big intercollegiate race to be rowed to-day. Thousands of dollars have been wagered at odds of $100 on Cornell to $75 on Syracuse and every bet offered has been snapped up instantly by the Syracusans. There is plenty of Cornell, Syracuse and Columbia money here although Columbia is asking and getting odds of two to one against Cornell and three to two against Syracuse.

The big race of the day—that of the varsity eights—will start at 5 o'clock, barring delays, from a point near Krum elbow, three miles above the bridge, for the four-mile course down the course. Pennsylvania has the inside course, with Wisconsin in position two, Cornell three, Syracuse four and Columbia five.

SHIPS IN CRASH THROUGH HELL GATE

NEW YORK, July 2.—The tramp steamship Edda collided with the schooner Grace Davis in Hell Gate this afternoon. The bowsprit and foremast of the Davis were carried away and a hole was stove into her side. She drifted helplessly in Hell Gate and finally struck a government barge. While she was entangled with the barge a revenue cutter took her in tow.

HOTEL CECIL CLOSED.

The Hotel Cecil is closed. Miss Lotta Crabtree, the owner, cannot at present say whether the closing is permanent, as her plans are not perfected. The house was conducted by Frank A. Moran and R. S. Morton and their lease expires July 15.

GOTHAM LID OFF

'ROUND WORLD VICTORS KNOWN NEXT SUNDAY

All the winners in the Race Around the World contest which closed on Saturday, June 26, will be announced in next Sunday's BOSTON AMERICAN. Interest in the contest is widespread. Requests have come in from numerous quarters inquiring who the winners are, but it was deemed wise to make no announcement until every figure had been verified. This will be done before publication on Sunday.

There are some surprises in the standing and some of the totals polled were tremendous. This is true of both the boys and the girls. In several instances, both boys and the girls, contestants over from among those back and assumed prominent positions in the list of the "Big 25."

The race around the world is if promises to be most exciting. New York, Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles have selected their teams of racers and they are sanguine of their chances.

Everything possible to insure a record to the New England teams has been done, and if the BOSTON AMERICAN teams lose it will be by a question of hours and minutes.

'M'CARREN IS REAL MAYOR,' SAYS BINGHAM

NEW YORK, July 2.—Ex-Commissioner of Police Bingham to-day declared that Patrick H. McCarren was now the real Mayor of New York, that McClellan was merely the Brooklyn Senator's tool, and that therefore, McCarren was master of the police department.

"The Mayor started in to run the police department from the City Hall," said the commissioner. "That was the real trouble, for that simply meant that Patrick McCarren was running it. If the Mayor had had strength of purpose enough to have stood by me, instead of giving way to the politicians, everything would have been all right.

"I am going away to spend a couple of months up in Nova Scotia with Mrs. Bingham, but I shall be back in the Fall, and I'll come back looking for a job.

"If you or any of my friends know of anybody who wants an honest man who will do honest work I wish you would recommend me. But if he employs Bingham I want you to tell him to let Bingham have a few nights in the Fall so he can get on the tail end of a cart and tell the citizens and voters of New York just how the Mayor of New York wants his police department run.

"I think I can tell the voters of New York something that will open their eyes."

General Bingham's veiled threat is understood to mean that he will take the stump in the mayoralty contest this Fall and expose the McClellan administration.

Josiah A. Stover, the new third deputy commissioner of the New York police department, is a native of Kittery, Me., and a graduate of Tufts College.

He is thirty-four years old. He was graduated from Tufts in 1901 and went to New York the next year. After a two years' course at the New York University he was admitted to the Kings County bar. In 1902 he was appointed assistant corporation counsel. He has held this office up to his present appointment by William F. Baker, the new commissioner, as third deputy commissioner and prior judge of the department.

TAFT MAY SEE YALE GAME TO-MORROW

NEW YORK, July 2.—President Taft may attend the baseball game to-morrow afternoon at the Polo Grounds between Yale and Harvard, according to a report that originated in an authentic source near the management of the Yale team to-day. Yale's athletic following is not discouraged over the three defeats administered by Harvard on the water yesterday at New London. The game promises to be the most hotly contested ever played by the two teams.

TROLLEY AND AUTO STAGE WRECKED

NEW YORK, July 2.—A southbound Broadway trolley car and one of the automobile stages of the Fifth Avenue Stage Company were wrecked to-day in a collision at the corner of Forty-first street and Broadway. The two came together with terrific impact. Passengers in the stage and in the car were badly shaken up and frightened. Mrs. Elizabeth F. Lord was slightly injured.

2 SLAIN BY TERRORIST IN LONDON

England Startled by Political Assassinations That Indicate a Plan of Campaign by Indian Organization—Part of Widespread Plot.

LONDON, July 2.—Madar Lelof Dhingra, the Indian student who shot and killed Lieutenant-Colonel Sir William Hutt Curzon Wylie and Dr. Cawas Lalcaca of Shanghai at the conclusion of a public gathering at the Imperial Institute, was arraigned in the Westminster Police Court to-day and remanded for one week after being formally charged with wilful murder.

In the dock the prisoner appeared unconcerned. He stood with his hands in his pockets and shook his head negatively when asked if he wished to say anything.

Subsequently, however, he said that he had not wilfully shot Dr. Lalcaca. "It was in self-defence," he said.

This is the first time the methods of the terrorists have been introduced into political agitation in England, and the country has awakened to the fact in an ugly temper. A widespread plot is feared. The prisoner, whose age is given as twenty-six, is said to have relatives in good standing in Calcutta.

At the India office the murder of Colonel Wyllie, who was a political aide-de-camp to Lord Morley, secretary of state for India, is held to be entirely political. The dead official, so far as is known, had no personal dealings with Dhingra, and the India office view is that the outrage was due to some imaginary grievance against the system of government.

Nothing appears to be known at the India office of Dhingra's antecedents. The Indian students.

Indian students generally profess detestation of the crime, but nevertheless many of them are known to be active members of the London branches of the societies conducting a campaign of sedition and anarchy in India.

Scotland Yard recently received information which led to increased activity in investigating the movements and antecedents of certain Indian students here. Lord Morley, himself, for some time past has been under police protection.

Wyllie, who had held important Indian appointments, fell dead on the spot.

Dr. Lalcaca showed signs of life after he fell and was hurried to St. George's hospital, but on arrival there it was found that he was dead.

Those near the assassin seized and held him until the arrival of police. He had two revolvers, a dagger and a knife. All were new, and it is believed that the crime was premeditated.

The gathering at the Imperial Institute, a building devoted to Indian and other colonial functions, was an "at home day" to India office of Dhingra's antecedents. The Indian students.

FOUR GREAT BATTLESHIPS ANCHOR HERE

The battleships Connecticut, Vermont, Kansas and Louisiana steamed into Boston Harbor in the order named to-day and anchored between the Charlestown Navy Yard and the Lovers Reach ferry. The Connecticut is the flagship of the squadron and her guns boomed out a salute as she entered the upper harbor. The salute was answered by the shore battery of the navy yard.

The battleships are all equipped with fire-control skeleton masts, the latest in fighting equipment. The fire of every gun aboard can be controlled from them and they could be two-thirds shot away by an enemy's shells and still stand.

Seldom if ever has Boston Harbor held such a big fleet of warships as now. There are about a score of torpedo boat destroyers and torpedo boats at the navy yard, besides a number of cruisers.

W. K. VANDERBILT AND WIFE AT ODDS?

NEWPORT, R. I., July 2.—William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., arrived here to-day from New York to visit his mother, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, at Marble House, which she is occupying this Summer. Nobody seems to know exactly what caused the rumored differences between young Vanderbilt and his wife, who has gone to Europe with her two children for the Summer. "Hopelessly parted" is about all one hears, but society thinks there will be developments that will explain matters in the course of time.

One thing is certain, Vanderbilt's mother is with him and not with her daughter-in-law. It is not believed that Willie Vanderbilt will, by any stretch of the imagination, find time to call upon his wife's sister, Mrs. Herman Oelrichs, though he must pass and repass the villa every day he is here.

GUESTS FLEE FIRE WHICH RUINS HOTEL

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., July 2.—The Ruisseaumont Hotel caught fire at 1:30 a. m. to-day and was destroyed. The loss is $100,000. Despite the rapid spread of the flames, all the guests got out safely, but many lost their clothing and valuables. The blaze was a spectacular one.

COBALT, ONT., BURNING; FEAR 5 LIVES LOST

TORONTO, July 2.—The entire business section of Cobalt is in flames and the entire town is threatened with destruction, according to a private despatch just received here.

One man is known to be dead and four children are missing. The monetary damage, according to this dispatch, may reach a million dollars.

The fire started in a Chinese restaurant and spread to Hollerbury road and is sweeping everything in its path.

The destruction of the town seems certain and its inhabitants are in a state of consternation.

9 TO 1 HARRIMAN LIVES FOR A YEAR

Lloyds of London is giving odds of nine to one that E. H. Harriman has at least one year more of life left in him.

Lloyds is the greatest gambling institution on earth. They will gamble on anything. They call it insurance. They will insure anything from a block of houses to the success of a trail marriage. They will quote odds on which way a fly will jump and will furnish the fly.

Mr. Harriman is recuperating at Semmering, Austria. He is eating cereals and drinking beer under the orders of Professor Strumpell, the German specialist. This is to put fat on his bones. July 15 he goes to Bandaste to take radium baths. The duration of life is a question of keen interest to American capitalists. So someone has just asked Lloyds of London for a quotation on Mr. Harriman's life. Lloyds promptly figured Harriman out, reckoning in his sixty years, his activity in the railroad game, his mental wear and tear and his everlasting Hartman luck. Then they gravely put up the quotation that they would write a policy on Mr. Harriman for a premium of ten guineas.

This is an equivalent of odds of nine to one that Harriman will live a year.

FATHER FOR 21ST TIME.

KITTANNING, Pa., July 2.—The birth of a daughter to Mrs. Aaron Ollinger of Bayne's township marks the twenty-first visit of the stork to the Ollinger home. Ollinger has been married twice, having nine children by his first wife.

HUNTINGTON AVENUE GROUNDS, July 2.—For few in all directions this afternoon when the Athletics and Red Sox met in the last game here of their long series. The reason: The Bostonians were determined to even up for the three straight defeats the Mack protegés handed out at the start of the series, and Connie Mack had his fellows all on edge for a winning battle, to lengthen the margin between the Red Legs and second place.

To-day's game marked the last appearance of the Athletics in Boston this season and the fans took a good-bye look at the snappy players from Quaker town.

The Lake boys were still badly crippled, for Jerry Lord and Dee Gessler's places at third base and right field respectively were still filled by utility men, this making the team pretty badly balanced up. Harry Gardner took care of third base and Harry Niles was the big noise in the right hand meadow. Harry Lord's absence continues to give him trouble and just at present he is enjoying the comforts of his old home in Maine and will not be back with the team for several days.

President Johnson of the American League was again on hand to witness the game. He leaves to-night for New York.

WOMAN FOR SCHOOL POSITION IN LYNN

For the first time in its history Lynn is to have a woman as assistant superintendent of public schools. To-day it was announced by the Lynn School committee that Miss Flora E. Pope had been appointed to that position at a salary of $1,500 a year for four years, after which the salary relative to the position, she is to be paid $1,800 a year. In addition to her duties as assistant superintendent Miss Pope will draw the largest salary ever paid by the city of Lynn to a woman in its employ. She is at present a teacher in Marshall University of Huntington W. Va. It was also announced to-day that Wilmarth S. Cantell of Cambridge is to be the sub-master of the Lynn Classical High School.

FIVE HURT WHEN TRAIN JUMPS RAIL

SHREVEPORT, La., July 2.—Kansas City Southern passenger train No. 24, northbound, was derailed between Frierson and Shreveport to-day by a broken rail. The express car and accommodation coach rolled down an embankment. Five persons were injured, all railroad men except J. C. Murphy of Gibson, La., who suffered a severe scalp wound and injuries to his back.

RAYNER PREFERS THE INCOME TAX

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Senator Rayner of Maryland discussed the legal phases of the corporation tax to-day. He said a choice between the income tax and the corporation tax he much preferred the income tax but rather than have the government bankrupt, if he could not get the income tax he would vote for the corporation tax, because he believed it to be constitutional.

NATIONAL LEAGUE GROUNDS, Philadelphia, July 2.—After a day of rest the Phillies and Boston Doves resumed hostilities this afternoon in a double-header, the first game of which was started at 2 o'clock. Another double-header is scheduled for these two teams to-morrow, making this a pretty strenuous stay the feathered creatures have had in the local camp.

President John Dovey of the Boston National is settled in Philadelphia this morning from Boston, and repudiated reports that Beaumont and Bowerman have been given walking papers.

Roy Thomas, who has been tipped as Bowerman's successor, says that he wants it understood in Boston that he had not been offered the management and that he knows nothing about any changes in the affairs of the team.

PICK GERMAN CRAFT FOR SONDER RACES

KIEL, July 2.—The committee of the Imperial Yacht Club formed to select crack representatives in the races for Sonder-Klasse yachts, which are to be held at Marblehead, Mass., this Summer, met in this city to-day, under the chairmanship of Prince Henry. The committee decided to send C. Alts' Wittlesbach VII. Hevelin, owned by O. Protzen and W. Kochemann, and Herr Berghoff's Seabund II. The boats will be shipped to America within a few days.

PUBLIC HEARINGS ON GARBAGE WORK

The Garbage Commission, which is to consider the advisability of the city entering into a 5-year contract for nearly $7,000,000 for the collection and disposal of garbage, organized by the selection of Frank C. Hastings as chairman at the office of the superintendent of streets to-day. It was decided that before any decisive action is taken in the matter public hearings will be held.

PRETENDER KILLS 14 IN MOROCCO

TANGIER, July 2.—It is learned that fourteen imperial soldiers were captured by the pretender's troops and publicly executed in their military camp. El Kebir's action in entering Mequinez so enraged Sultan Hafid that he had El Kebir's army whipped in public.

TO-DAY'S CABLE NEWS

Up to Midnight, London Time

French Archbishop May Be Imprisoned.

AUCH, France—The Correctional Court of Auch has fined Archbishop Ricard $100 for making public a pastoral letter denouncing secular education as anti-Christian and anti-patriotic. Six priests were fined $10 each for complicity with the Archbishop. All refused to pay. The court then ruled that if they do not they shall be imprisoned for the minimum period provided by law.

$415 Paid for a Farthing.

LONDON—The Rashleigh coin collection was sold at auction at Sotheby's yesterday. A gold Patrick farthing brought £ 88. It is believed to be the only one extant. It was coined at Carrickfergus or Downpatrick about 1185 by the Governor of Ireland under King Henry II. It has a representation of David playing a harp on one side and St. Patrick driving the reptiles out of Ireland on the other.

Germany Tries Maxim Silencer.

BERLIN—Hudson Maxim is showing his gun silencer to the Ministry of War. Experts applied it to the Maxim machine gun and were highly satisfied with the result. So also are German artillerists. The noise, recoil and flash were annulled. It worked equally well on the Mauser and other rifles. The only noise made was by the bullets. Experiments will be made shortly with big guns.

Calderara Flies Again at Rome.

ROME — Lieutenant Calderara has resumed his flights near Rome with the aeroplane left here by the Wright brothers. This machine was damaged in a recent accident, but has now been completely repaired. The lieutenant manoeuvred freely at different altitudes, and he has announced his intention of building an aeroplane of his own.

Bishop to Show Gyroscope.

PARIS—Cortland F. Bishop says he will bring over to participate in aviation week at Rheims, beginning in August, the gyroscope in which Curtiss made his flight in New York. If nobody has crossed the English Channel by aeroplane before September he will then send the machine on that attempt.

May Sentence 46 to Death.

CARLSBAD—A record criminal case in the Austrian courts is in progress at Prague, forty-six persons, being on trial, charged with an anti-military conspiracy and high treason. If convicted, each of the forty-six must suffer the death penalty.

Earthquake Felt in Spain.

MADRID—A slight earthquake shock was felt last night at Alicante, throwing the people into a panic. The damage was slight and no one hurt.

Falconio Returning to America.

ROME—A semi-official statement issued from the Vatican says that Mgr. Falconio, the apostolic delegate at Washington, will leave here soon for that city. The news of his approaching recall is said to be unfounded.

SAFE AND SANE FOURTH FOR BOSTON PLANNED BY POLICE DEPARTMENT

A quiet Independence Day celebration, free from the features which menace life and limb, is contemplated in orders issued by Police Commissioner O'Meara. The orders are the same as those issued a year ago, with the exception of the date, the celebration this year being held on the 5th. The satisfactory results of last year's regulations led the Commissioner to reissue them without other alteration.

The use of firearms or tin horns is absolutely forbidden, but fireworks and harmless explosives may be used between 4 a. m. and midnight. The placing of torpedoes or other explosives on street railway tracks is especially forbidden, and there is the usual prohibition as to the discharge of explosives near hospitals or residences in which there is illness.

The order reads in part as follows:

"Though the order of the Mayor and Aldermen permits the discharge of fireworks under certain restrictions, it gives no license to anyone so to conduct himself as to endanger life or to inflict injury upon person or property. The laws relating to assault, trespass and malicious mischief are not suspended in favor of those who use fireworks.

"The police will be especially vigilant in prosecuting persons who use explosives on car tracks and those who make bonfires without license or in violation of any condition of the license.

"Young girls found in the streets late at night will be taken to the police stations and there placed in the hands of the police matrons until delivered to their parents or to a probation officer.

"Prosecutions for all offences against law must begin with the very first offenders, even though long in advance of the holiday, and be continued to the end."

Mayor Woods of Somerville has instructed the police of his city to prevent the lighting of bonfires, on either private property or in the streets.

Somerville people may begin celebrating at 4 in the morning, but will be obliged to quit at 11 at night, an hour earlier than their Boston neighbors.

In his order to the police Mayor Woods gives notice that he will expect the law and the order to be observed to the letter.

What You May and May Not Do on the Fourth

YOU MAY
- Fire harmless explosives.
- Set off fireworks.
- Make noise from 4 a. m. until midnight.

YOU MUST NOT
- Use firearms.
- Blow tin horns.
- Place torpedoes on tracks.
- Discharge explosives near hospitals.
- Start celebrating the Fourth on Sunday.
- Break loose against trespass or mischief.
- Have bonfires without police permission.

FIVE BOYS HELD IN BONFIRE CASE

The five boys who were accused of setting a fire to hay in Roxbury which spread to the houses Nos. 27 and 29 Ward street, causing $2,000 loss, were in the Roxbury Court to-day charged with arson. The boys are Joseph McDonald of No. 27 Burrow street, George Morris of No. 16 Whitney street, Walter Lufe of No. 37 Elmwood street, Joseph Coakley of No. 49 Elmwood street and John Lamont of No. 1 Elmwood place. At the suggestion of Judge Williams the charge was temporarily changed to setting a bonfire within ten rods of a building. The case was continued until next Thursday. The boys were required to give $100 bail each.

GETTING READY!

LODGERS IN BLAZING BLOCK BARELY SAVED

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, July 2.—Lodgers on the upper floors of the Porter building in Irving square were driven out by a fire early to-day. Timothy McDermott and an unidentified man, lodgers on the third floor, were cut off by smoke on the fire escape and had to be taken down by firemen on ladders.

The loss is estimated at $20,000.

The building was occupied on the street floor by Edward Balcom, shoe repairer; Miss Collins, millinery; Woolworth's five and ten cent store, Charles Tinkham, bowling alleys and billiard and pool rooms; Joseph Hill, meat and provision market; Mrs. James R. Nicholson, restaurant, and F. Ellery Hiltz, barber. The two upper floors in the north section of the building were used for a lodging house by John Williams, a retired horseman. In the south section on the second story the occupants were F. Landers, who made women's suits; Miss Morey, milliner; Arthur C. Phipps, photograph studio, and the office of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company.

The apparatus from the Hollis street engine house got to the scene before the first alarm had finished ringing. The firemen saw McDermott and another man hanging to a railing on the top of the building, enveloped in smoke and crying for help. Ladders were raised quickly and the two men rescued in short order. McDermott was badly burned about the hands and face. The second man could not be found after the fire, and it is supposed that he escaped without injury.

MISS STODDARD U. S. DELEGATE

Miss Cora Frances Stoddard of No. 23 Trull street, Dorchester, Wellesley College, '96, sails from New York to-morrow for London to represent the United States at the six-day international congress against alcohol which opens at Kensington, July 18. Miss Stoddard is the only delegate from this country. She was appointed by the State Department at Washington to this post.

Her address on The Relation of Juvenile Temperance Training to National Progress," on July 10, the second day of the convention, will practically open the exercises of that gathering.

Miss Trull is corresponding secretary of the Scientific Temperance Federation. She is an accredited delegate, also, from the International Sunday School Association and from the National Temperance Society, the oldest organization of its kind in the United States. 3 OF HARVARD CREW RETURN

"We were bound to win in the great Harvard-Yale boat race, and we certainly made good," said Lunt of the Harvard crew to-day, as the train pulled in at the Back Bay Station from New London at 12:26. "We are not going to have a banquet and feel more like a good rest."

Lunt, Faulkner and "Al" Withington were the only three members of the Harvard crew to return to Boston to-day. The crew broke training at their quarters last night, and Blanden went to Sag Harbor, while Bacon and Wade were whirled in an automobile to the races at Pontchikogsie. The other members of the crews left for their homes.

FINED FOR KISSING HIS INTENDED BRIDE

WORCESTER, July 2.—Worcester's Central District Court judge, Samuel Utley, had a novel case to settle. Arrested on a warrant sworn out by the brother of his intended bride whom he is to wed in a few days, Leliso Aggarous was fined $3 by the court for disturbing the peace.

The disturbance came when Aggarous attempted to kiss his affianced. She objected strenuously to the kissing. Complainant acknowledged satisfaction after court. The only say the court proceedings will not upset the wedding march.

CARUSO GETS A RAISE.

PARIS, July 2.—It is declared in operatic circles to-day that the tenor Caruso's record of $2,000 a night has been eclipsed in his new contract with the Metropolitan Opera House of New York, signed by Manager Gatti-Casazza. It is said to be seven hundred dollars a night in excess of the sum he now receives.

TOWBOAT SUNK BY LINER.

The ocean towboat Swatara of the Philadelphia & Reading Company was sunk in collision with the Norwegian fruit steamer Anna, off Rose Island, below Philadelphia, having been struck with terrific force just amidships.

EAST BOSTON WATER MAINS ARE IN PERIL

There is a scare in East Boston because it is learned that the district is likely to be cut off at any moment from its water supply by breakage of the mains.

The two seventy-four-inch mains are exposed 125 feet on one side, and more than 200 feet on the other, where they cross Chelsea Creek from Marginal street, to Condor street in East Boston. The only emergency supply for East Boston, in case these mains should be broken, is a small reservoir near Putnam street in that section.

The mains are within a few feet of the plant of the Magee Furnace Company. One of the superintendents of that concern says that the mains are often threatened with destruction by barges navigating the creek.

East Boston residents have a very vivid recollection of the Chelsea conflagration and fear destruction of their homes in case the mains should break while a fire was raging in their district. Official action to remedy the danger is expected. The mains have been examined where exposed by Deputy Fire Chief Grady, District Chief Godsoid and Assistant City Engineer Meinnes.

SCHOONER SUNK ON THE GEORGES BANK

A coasting schooner has undoubtedly gone to the bottom, perhaps with all hands, from the report brought in yesterday by Skipper Joseph Goodwin of the T wharf schooner Aiches. Captain Goodwin stated that on Thursday of last week off Georges he sighted a vessel's deckhouse which he thought had been part of a two-masted craft. There was no name on the wreckage that would aid in determining the identity of the unfortunate vessel.

ARRESTED AS SMUGGLER.

R. Jahan, a second class passenger on the Romanic, was arrested to-day by the Federal authorities, charged with smuggling. At the South Station his baggage was searched and quantities of valuable Armenian lace found concealed in pillows.

BROKE SKULL IN FALL.

John Devine of No. 60 Keyes street, James Flinn, while ascending a long flight of stairs, fell and received a wound on the right temple. He was removed to the City Hospital, where the doctors believed his skull to be fractured. He was reported in a dangerous condition.

BABY'S ITCHING WAS INTOLERABLE

Girl of Six Months had Fearful Attack of Eczema—Spread All Over Her Face and Eyes Began to Swell—Scratched Till Blood Came—Relieved in a Night and

CURED BY CUTICURA AFTER LONG SUFFERING

"When my little girl was six months old I noticed small red spots on her right cheek. I did not pay any attention to them but finally the spots grew so large that I sent for the doctor who said it was ringworm. He prescribed an ointment which I used for two weeks, but instead of helping the eruption, the ointment seemed to make it worse. Then I went to a second doctor who after examining the baby said it was eczema. He also gave me an ointment which did not help either. The disease in the meantime spread all over the face and the eyes began to swell. I became very anxious. The itching grew intolerable. I had to tie the baby's hands to the cradle to prevent her scratching. The cheeks were covered with blood and it was a terrible sight to see. I consulted doctors from September to December, but they were unable to cure the baby. I paid out from twenty to thirty dollars without relief.

"One of my friends told me of the Cuticura Remedies and I sent at once for a set which I began to use that evening. The next morning the baby's face was all white instead of red and you can imagine how glad we were. I cannot find words enough to praise Cuticura and I do not know what would have become of my baby only for it. I used the Cuticura Remedies until the eczema entirely disappeared. The child is now three years old and quite well. I used three cakes of Cuticura Soap, two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and one bottle of Cuticura Resolvent and I never use any other soap. I always recommend them whenever there is a chance for doing so. I will send you one of her pictures which she had taken four days after she was healed. Mrs. F. E. Gumbin, Sheldon, Ia., July 12, 1908."

Cuticura Soap (25c.), Ointment (50c.), Resolvent (50c.), and Chocolate Coated Pills (25c.), are sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., 137 Columbus Av., Boston.

MAYOR SENDS 5 NAMES FOR SINKING FUND

At a special meeting of the Board of Aldermen this afternoon Mayor George A. Hibbard sent in the following appointments:

To be members without salary of the Sinking Fund Commission under the amended official clause of the new city charter: Leonard H. Rhodes of No. 258 Warren street, Ward 21, Roxbury, of provision firm of Rhodes Brothers; Max E. Wyzanski of No. 15 Moreland street, Ward 21, Roxbury, at present one of the pauper institutions trustees; James W. Dunphy of No. 18 Ussher street, Ward 19, Jamaica Plain, newspaper publisher; Senator W. Prentiss Dutch of No. 23 Sawyer street, Roxbury; David F. Tilley of No. 496 Massachusetts avenue.

To be members of the Boston Transit Commission at $5,000 a year in place of the late Thomas J. Gargan and Former Schoolhouse Commissioner James B. Noyes.

To be member of the Board of Appeals on disputes between the Building Commission and contractors at a salary of $15 for every actual working day—Dennis J. Sullivan of No. 80 Hillside street, Ward 19, Roxbury, recommended by the Master Builders' Exchange and the Carpenters' Trades Council.

All appointments lay over till the next meeting of the Aldermen for action.

The five new appointments to the Sinking Fund Commission are to fill the vacancies caused by resignations, under the new city charter, of Nathaniel J. Rust, Israel A. Ratshesky, Horatio G. Curtis, Joseph H. O'Neil and Frank G. Webster.

The only member of the old commission remaining in office is James T. Wetherell. He is connected with the North End Savings Bank, but not as an officer or director.

CZAR'S VISIT TO ROME CAUSES FEAR

ROME, July 2.—A committee including representatives of every Socialist, Republican and anarchistic society of the Roman Province has been formed for the purpose of protesting against the visit of the Czar of Russia. Secret meetings are being held and the police are keeping careful watch among the anarchists. Every new face seen in anarchistic quarter, is scrutinized carefully, and government agents are preparing a careful guardianship over the Russian autocrat.

RANGER AT GRAVESEND.

A cablegram has been received from Commander William P. Low, U. S. N., in charge of the nautical training ship Ranger, announcing its arrival at Gravesend England. After a stay of a week or ten days the ship will sail for Copenhagen and Stockholm.

SHAW TOASTS ROOSEVELT ON A POST CARD

In the limited area of one ordinary sized open faced postal card, G. Bernard Shaw, the Irish playwright of international fame, has written to a Bostonian a blistering criticism of former President Theodore Roosevelt as an author on "Socialism."

Recently C. F. McCotter of the Ball Publishing Company of this city mailed Mr. Shaw at Ayot. St. Lawrence, England, a copy of the Outlook Magazine, in which was marked Mr. Roosevelt's article on Socialism.

Mr. Shaw sent his opinion of the article and of Mr. Roosevelt as its author back to Mr. McCotter on the postal card, which read as follows:

A serious reply to Mr. Roosevelt's article on Socialism in the Outlook cannot be written in this country. In England one article is only The Noodle's Oration up-to-date.

Its sentiments would be very proper and suitable for the sheriff of a district on the pioneering edge of a territory of the United States, but coming as it does from the pen of one who has been President for nearly eight years, it is a staggering revelation of how little an American President may know about his own business. He might almost as well be a King.

Are you quite sure that Theodore is not just pulling your leg in the first flush of high spirits following his release from the White House?

G. BERNARD SHAW.

Ayot, St. Lawrence, May 23, 1909.

UNKNOWN'S BODY FOUND IN HARBOR

The body of an unknown man, bearing a button of the Holy Name Society in the lapel of the coat, was taken out of the harbor near the Northern avenue bridge today by the crew of the police boat Guardian, under Sergeant Goodwin Kendall. It is thought that this is the body of the man who, crazed by the heat, jumped from the Newtown on Tuesday, June 22, at Howe's wharf slip. The body is that of a man about forty years old, weighing 175 pounds, 5 feet 8 inches tall, dressed in a black serge suit, blue tie, white shirt, standing collar and laced shoes.

DASHES THROUGH FIRE.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Awakened by the intense heat early today, Joseph Kushner of No. 173 East One Hundred and Ninth street saw flames leaping as high as the ceiling. Kushner plunged himself in his bed clothes and made a dash through the flames. The police found 100 persons who were awakened by the smoke panic-stricken.

ALFRED GAUTHIER, CRACKER VICTIM; SISTER MILDRED

INJURED LAD SCORNS TEARS

To-day when his mother went to see young Alfred Gauthier, lying on a bed of pain in the Lynn Hospital as a result of the explosion of a giant fire cracker in Nahant, she carried a nosquet of flowers picked by his little sister, Mildred. The two children were almost inseparable and Mildred was only a short distance away when the cracker went off and tore away his right hand.

The fortitude of the boy, who is only eight years old, amazed the doctors. Although suffering intense pain he would not cry and exhorted his mother, who was in tears by the bedside, to be brave.

"Don't be brave and don't cry," said his mother, "when they picked the last piece after the explosion, 'I'm not going to cry,'" he said, and he actually comforted the sorrowing parents while the doctors were working over him at the hospital.

SIEGEL FURNITURE CLUB HAS ELECTION

At the annual election of officers of the Henry Siegel Furniture Club, held at the Point of Pines, Joseph Greene was made president, A. R. Blades vice-president and Mary J. McKey secretary, by unanimous vote. J. E. Priddy, the new secretary of the firm, was formally introduced and made an honorary member of the club. It was also decided that the women connected with the department be accepted as members.

After the business a dinner was served and Mr. Greene was toastmaster. The theme was "Loyalty to the Employer," and the speakers were H. E. Norwell, R. G. Alexander and Mr. Priddy. A feature of the meeting was the farewell to George W. Low, one of the oldest associates of the department, who goes to the Siegel-Cooper Company in Chicago, Mr. Siegel's oldest store.

200 ICEBERGS SEEN FROM ONE STEAMER

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., July 2.—Never in the history of ocean navigation has the presence of ocean icebergs along the Grand Banks and eastern Newfoundland coast been so prolonged in during the present year. To-day the steamer Rosalind, from New York, reported counting over 200 ice pillars of varying sizes, but most of them towering to great heights and of menacing proportions generally, between Cape Race and St. John's, a distance of but sixty miles. This was but one of many such reports made here to-day and for months the conditions on the northern seaboard being said to be even more icy.

LAME MILLIONAIRE GETS A 2-CENT TIP

DETROIT, July 2.—A recipient of charity at the hands of a ragged dock rat was the unique experience of Jerome B. Rice, a millionaire seed man of Rochester, N. Y., here to-day. Mr. Rice, who is an invalid, travels in a wheel chair with an attendant. He was sitting on a wharf waiting for a boat, with several newspapers across his lap, when a typical roustabout approached. "Here, sport," said the longshoreman, handing the millionaire a couple of papers, "I don't want no papers, but you can put these in your kick."

NEW LINCOLN COINS READY

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—The new Lincoln one-cent pieces coined at the United States mint in this city are ready for delivery. There are now 150,000 of them in the vaults of the mint and they will be placed in circulation as soon as orders are received from Washington. The new pieces are much like the old ones with the exception of the Indian head. In its place is a profile of Abraham Lincoln.

WONDERLAND TICKETS FREE

A constantly increasing patronage at Wonderland has now reached such large proportions that the management has decided to add to its free attractions by arranging for the presentation in the open air arena of something big and fetching that cannot be seen elsewhere.

This is the keynote in Summer park entertainment with the Wonderland management, and is carried out in the indoor features, every one of which is out of the ordinary. The newest thing is the "1915 Girl Minstrels," which includes fourteen pretty girls who know how to joke, sing, dance and keep the fun going in either blackface or whiteface.

Another attraction is the "Prophet and Princess," a scenic presentation of the death of Joan the Raphel and the dancing of Salome, all without unseemly features. The Golden Circus, changes each week, is a popular attraction on original lines, and the ever-changing vaudeville performance is a leader. The many other attractions are kept busy, the big rides are always running, and Teel's band gives hourly concerts.

Wonderland's combination ticket, giving you shows and admission for fifty cents, and the twenty-for-ten plan at the gate, continues and has created an increased demand.

Next Sunday's AMERICAN will contain fourteen free tickets to Wonderland, to be used on Tuesday or Wednesday, day or evening. These tickets give admission to the Girls' Minstrels and count as a half-fare ticket to most of the other attractions. The SUNDAY AMERICAN crowds are growing larger each week. Order the SUNDAY AMERICAN now.

WORCESTER TO PRAY FOR RAIN

WORCESTER, July 2.—Rain, rain, a good soaking, soaking downpour which will thoroughly wet every roof is wanted so badly by George S. Coleman, chief of the fire department here; Wesley N. Avery, deputy chief, and Captain Hiram R. Williamson of the fire patrol, that today these fire-fighting officials are asking the good people of Worcester to pray that rain shall fall before or on the Fourth.

"I will pray for rain, but not publicly," said the Rev. O. E. Malloy, pastor of the Dewey Street Baptist Church, who prayed for rain successfully when the New England fate was held here in 1907.

These officials ask people to pray for rain. Why do they not pray for rain themselves. This would show a willingness on their part to do their share. "If I thought these men were serious I would give them some advice, but their utterances show that they are trifling with the Almighty. It is a dangerous thing to trifle with Him."

"If there should be a meeting of Christian people to beseech God to give us rain, I would be one of the first to join in asking God to give us rain. I will do so, as it is, but not publicly.

"When we pray we should mean it and be sincere in what we ask for. If God sees fit to protect Worcester He will do so without our prayers, but He will not do so unless He thinks it is for our own good."

But Worcester is dry as tinder to-day. The fire-fighters dread Monday when all the big July 4 firecrackers will begin snapping out their sparks spitefully in every direction and worst of all, the dreaded fire balloons will be soaring over the parched roofs threatening fire in every direction.

PLANS PROVISIONAL PETROLEUM DUTY

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The Senate Finance Committee is now expected to report an amendment early next week authorizing the President to impose a duty of one-half cent a gallon on crude petroleum when the importations of that article exceed a certain number of gallons. This will give a certain amount of protection to the independent oil companies.

MEYER AT NEWPORT.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 2.—The dispatch boat Dolphin, with Secretary of the Navy George von L. Meyer aboard, arrived here to-day. As she entered the harbor she was saluted by the gunboat Reina Mercedes. The Secretary is the guest at luncheon of Rear-Admiral John P. Merrill, commanding the second naval district. He departs for Boston late this afternoon.

$13,000 PENSION FOR P. R. R. MAN

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—Captain John P. Green, first vice-president of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, went on the pension list to-day. He will draw the largest pension money of any man in the United States—about $13,000 annually. Having arrived at the age of seventy years, he was forced to retire in conformity with the rules of the company.

BOSTON GIRL TRIUMPHS.

LONDON, July 2.—The Boston prima donna, Edith Delys, raised the audience at Covent Garden to a high pitch of enthusiasm by her fine performance in the title role of "Aida." The critics highly praise her brilliant singing and dramatic acting.

YOUNG FRICK PAYS $10 FINE OFF BIG WAD

Childs Frick, only son of Henry Clay Frick, was to-day fined $10 by Judge Charles Almy in the Cambridge Police Court for operating an automobile without a license. The young man was unable to tell the court just how long he had been at Pride's Crossing and in this State.

From a big fat roll, which the police of the Cambridge Court say contained all of $1,000 the young man peeled off the required ten-spot after making a game fight to avoid the fine.

Young Frick was summoned into court by Policeman John Greene of Station 4, North Cambridge, on June 22 because his automobile didn't have a Massachusetts register on it. To-day Frick pleaded guilty.

Clad immaculately in a gray outing suit and wearing tan gloves Frick faced Judge Almy. He said that as he applied for a license for his automobile when he came here for the Harvard class day. He said that he had heard that he could operate his car in this State for seven days after coming here and that he had expected to get his license in that time.

"When did you come here?" demanded the Judge.

"I don't remember how long I have been here," said the young man after a moment's reflection. Then he appealed to a fellow who had accompanied him into court. His friend for the moment couldn't refresh his memory.

"Can't you answer my questions?" demanded the Judge. "You seem to be old enough to answer questions."

"Well, said the youth, "the machine came here some days after I did. I'm afraid I can't give you the exact date. If you have a calendar I might be able to figure it up."

"You came to Pride's Crossing on June 20," suggested Judge Almy.

"You're fined $10," said the Court.

COURT DEALS BLOW TO CIVIL SERVICE

SALEM, July 2.—Justice Morton of the Supreme Court handed down a finding of importance to every city and town in the Commonwealth as to the right to suspend civil service employes when the necessity for their employment has ceased.

The case was a petition of Patrick Griffin vs. the Mayor and Overseers of the Poor of Salem for a writ of mandamus to compel his reinstatement as fireman at the almshouse on the ground that he was dismissed without the hearing required under the civil service law.

Justice Morton found that occasion for the employment of the plaintiff had ceased and that the defendants were not obliged to give him a hearing.

JULY OPENS UP STRONG IN REAL ESTATE

The month of July has opened up with a rush of trading in the realty field and a large grist of sales was reported to-day.

The biggest deal reported to-day and one of the largest reported in South Boston for many weeks is that of about 100,000 feet, taxed for $2 a foot, bounded by Summer, D, Dighy, E and Fargo streets, which has been purchased by Jeremiah Williams et al., trustees. It is the intention of the purchasers to erect a large set of wool stores on the property.

In the South End the four-story brick building and 1,227 square feet of land at the corner of Dover and Hingham streets, owned by Merkel Dell, Tingley et ux., have been sold to Helen F. Jacobi. The estate is assessed for a total of $12,000, of which $5,200 is on the land.

David Fleming et al. have sold to Katherine E. Johnson, Elliot, passing through Joseph Weinburg, four-story brick house and 1464 square feet of land on Charles street, near Pinckney street, West End. The property is taxed on a total valuation of $14,000, of which $6300 is on the land.

In the same district the four-story brick dwelling house and 828 square feet of land, assessed for a total of $7000, at No. 32 Phillips street, near Lindell court, have been sold to Thomas M. Smith to Peter Ezekas. The sale is rated at $7,400.

Samuel Goldsmith has sold to Harry Green a lot of land on Astor street, near Hemenway street, Back Bay, containing 2,000 square feet, assessed for $2,500. The same purchaser has bought from William H. Hurd et al. a lot of land on Astor street, also on Astor court.

The Boston Realty Company has sold for $90,000 to Edward Wingate et ux. the property of Kilbreth road, Brookline, consisting of single dwelling and 3127 square feet of land. The assessed valuation $18,000, to C. H. Lewis, title passing through Mary D. Moore.

In the same suburb, Herbert E. Prescott has sold to Helen M. Wingate the frame house, stable and 5000 square feet of land on Kilsby street, near Chester street, which is assessed for $7500, of which $2500 is on the land. David T. Walleigh et ux. have sold to Edith L. Bowker the frame dwelling and 7192 square feet of land at No. 25 Siddons street, near Athol street, Brighton. The property is assessed for $4000, of which $1600 is on the land.

The Beacon Trust Company has sold to Antonio Dellisco about 24,000 square feet of land bounded by Lawrence, Brookline and school streets, Brighton, and taxed for 10 cents a foot.

In Roxbury the property at No. 38 Orchard street, corner of Orchard Park street, consisting of a frame house and 18,062 square feet of land, has been sold by Lemuel A. Noble to Jessie Fleming. The estate is assessed for $3,600, $1,400 being on the land.

Mary E. Friedman et ux. have sold to Charles Gilbert the frame house and 5,000 square feet of land at No. 7 Pond street, near Dorchester avenue, Dorchester. The estate is taxed for a total of $3,500, of which $2,500 is on the land.

In the same suburb the frame house and 7,000 square feet of land, all assessed for $2,800 at No. 19 Everson street, near Orchard street, have been sold by Edward Hamilton et ux. to Joseph Ahern et ux., who hold a ratable for $2,800.

Henry L. Pierson et ux. have sold to John Cassidy et ux. the frame house and 1,200 square feet of land at No. 31 Green street, near High court, Charlestown. The estate is taxed for a total of $2,800.

A. M. Spittle of the Kimball building has sold Frances W. Herrell the pinewood house and 7,000 square feet of land at No. 25 Sharon street, West Medford, to Michael H. Burke, who will occupy.

CABINET MEMBERS COMING WITH TAFT

President Taft and half of his cabinet will spend the Fourth in New England. The President will reach Beverly Farms early in the morning, Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel will come to Boston Saturday. Secretary of the Navy Meyer will be at Hamilton. Postmaster General Hitchcock is expected at his home in Newton and it is probable that Secretary of War Dickinson will be visiting fortifications at some point along the coast in connection with his inspection of the New England defences.

This will be the first time that a president and so many cabinet officers have visited New England at one time.

WINTRY WEATHER ON NORTH ATLANTIC

After being delayed nearly twenty-four hours by dense fog off the Grand Banks, the Leyland line steamship Canadian, Captain Bullock, is at Pier 43, Hoosac Docks. The liner had been laid up at Liverpool for weeks and she left there June 20, filled with general cargo, including hundreds of bales of Egyptian cotton, rare china, silks, cane goods, machinery, beer, chemicals and general freight. She had more than 3,000 tons of merchandise, valued at about $1,000,000. Captain Bullock reported wintry weather with strong westerly winds, to the banks.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 2.—The Rev. Thomas M. Riley, permanent rector of St. Mary's Church at Newmarket, one of the best known Catholic clergymen in the New Hampshire diocese, is mentioned as the most likely successor to the late Fr. Beckle as pastor of the Immaculate Conception Church at Nashua.

BIG SHOE AND LEATHER FAIR DRAWS THRONG

As industrial event, without a precedent in the business history of the United States, was born into accomplishment last night, when, amid the hearty cheers of a multitude, the First World's Shoe and Leather Fair was thrown open to the public.

Long before the gates were opened, the Charlesmark promenade was thronged with humanity, both on the Cambridge and the Boston sides of the basin. The houses on Beacon street were also crowded, while both the big bridges held hundreds of spectators waiting for the "lighting up" of the exposition building itself and for the display of fireworks.

The patient throng was not disappointed. As President McCormick stepped to the switchboard and threw the lever over which flashed out lights by the thousand, flooding the immense building with noonday light, applause rose from the crowds both within and without the exhibition hall.

The first to congratulate President McCormick on the successful opening of his fair was Mayor Brooks of Cambridge, who presented Mrs. McCormick with a handsome floral tribute in honor of the auspicious opening of the enterprise.

Other notables present at the opening were Mayor Rich of Lynn, Mayor Keut of Brockton, Charles H. Hoyt, president of the New England Shoe & Leather Company; Arthur B. Dunning, president of the Boston Shoe and Leather Club, and the consuls of Belgium, Switzerland, Mexico, England and Brazil.

As the lights flashed up and the delighted throng surged through the gates, Stewart's Boston Band, with Emil Mollenhauer as leader, struck up the enlivening notes of "Herbert's American March," which was almost drowned in a thunder of applause.

Then began the grand promenade of the exposition, each floor and nook and corner of which, and of the grounds, was ablaze with light to the visitors. The roof garden, one of the finest aerial promenades in America, was filled from end to end with spectators, who revelled in the scene of natural beauty that lay before them in splendid panorama.

One moonlight evening on that roof garden is worth a month of Europe. From the waters of the Charles was a brilliant sight, dotted with scores of motor boats, whose owners had come down the river to enjoy the scenes of the opening night.

At 9 o'clock the booming of a cannon gave the signal for the fireworks. For half an hour, even the moon was dimmed, as rocket after rocket, breaking high in the air, let fall myriads of stars and shooting branches.

To see the exhibition is to appreciate what the utmost man can do in the organization of a gigantic enterprise.

Munyon's Paw-Paw Pills are unlike all other laxatives or cathartics. They tone the liver into activity by gentle methods. They do not gripe, nor act as a purge; they do not weaken the stomach, but act directly on the digestive organs, and restore them to healthy action. Price 25 cents.

HUNDREDS INSPECT ANDERSON GARDENS

Hundreds of people visited the flower gardens on the Weld estate in Brookline, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Larz Anderson, who opened the gardens to the public. The gardens are now in their finest dress, and the many visitors were delighted with the display of hardy and perennial flowers. Roses were the chief attraction, growing on all sides and in all varieties. The crimson ramblers especially attracted much attention. Peonies, too, in all varieties were in full bloom.

CITIZENS OBJECT TO LYING-IN HOSPITAL

Headed by the Rev. Richard Wright, pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational Church, several prominent residents of Cambridgeport to-day filed a petition with Mayor William F. Brooks asking for a hearing for the purpose of protesting against location of a lying-in hospital at No. 84 Magazine street. At its meeting Tuesday night the Cambridge Board of Aldermen granted Miss Angie Hadford the right to open a hospital at that address. Mayor Brooks set Tuesday afternoon for a hearing on the matter. Last year Mayor Wardwell vetoed a similar order of the Board of Aldermen.

PROF. PALMER WILL NOT WED

Over his own signature Professor G. H. Palmer of Harvard, whose advocacy of "innocent flirting" is creating so much discussion at present, makes flatly tant there is any truth in a report that he is contemplating a second marriage.

In the current issue of "The Congregationalist" Professor Palmer takes sharp exception to a report that he was to marry again, which was given space in a Boston morning newspaper. Then he adds:

"Let me say, then, as unequivocally as possible, that the original rumor is as baseless as the asserted retirement on my part to give color to the tale."

The reference to "asserted reticence" concerned the statement of the morning newspaper in question that Professor Palmer had "refused to deny or confirm the marriage report.

FINDS OFFICER IS NOT GUILTY

Patrolman Michael F. Kennedy of the Jamaica Plain Station was found not guilty in the District Court to-day on the charge of assault and battery made by Charles A. Murphy. It was alleged that the officer, on the night of May 28, struck Murphy. Judge Perrin in his finding said the charge had not been substantiated.

Fred Howe, who was sitting on the steps of the Minion building, wants the alleged assault took place. Testified that Patrolman Kennedy asked Murphy if he was a member of the Loyal Hills A. A., located in the building. Murphy, he said, answered, "It's none of your business."

W. L. DOUGLAS IS UPHELD IN LABOR REPORT

BROCKTON, July 2.—The report of the committee of five citizens, appointed for the purpose of investigating the cause for the exodus of the shoe industry from this city, is made public to-day. The committee finds that the primary cause is the unfortunate controversy between the W. L. Douglas Shoe Company and the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union, and vindicates the company.

In its report the committee reviews the whole controversy and cites these facts as a result of the trouble: That the Douglas company has established five factories in other cities and towns in Massachusetts, Maine and New Hampshire; that one year ago 13,000 pairs of shoes were made in this city by the company in a single day, while but 1,200 pairs are made in a day now; that the number of employes has been reduced from 13,000 to 300 and the number is likely to decrease unless the controversy is adjusted.

According to the committee the controversy arose over the interpretation of the contract between the company and the union. A contract that had been in force for three years and which had been again signed by both parties and which they promised to abide by. The specific issue over which the two parties could not agree was that which gave the company the right to change its methods or system at any time.

The company changed a certain class of work from a high grade factory to a cheaper one. The union protested. The matter was put before the State Board of Arbitration and Conciliation. The board upheld the company but later said that it must pay more for the work that it had placed in the lower grade factory. The company accepted both decisions. So did the union. But the union notified the company that they would not renew the agreement. It did not and the Douglas people began to move.

In closing the committee recommends "that the union accept as final settlement of the past relations the decision of the State Board and make no earnest effort to renew contractual relations."

CAMBRIDGE WOMEN WAR ON BARRACKS

Notwithstanding the protest that has been raised in Cambridge against the erection of an $18,000 Salvation Army barracks at the corner of Green and Pleasant streets, the Cambridge branch of the army has applied to Superintendent of Buildings Tracy for a permit to erect the building.

It is expected that the Cantabrigian Club, the exclusive women's club of Cambridge, which has been very active recently in passing resolutions opposing the erection of the building, will have a large committee in attendance at the hearing to champion the cause of the property holders in the vicinity of the proposed building.

July 23 and 24 will be given over to entertainments and trips around Boston and vicinity.

PLANTS TIED UP WITH STEEL STRIKE

PITTSBURG, July 2.—Striking tin plate workers have succeeded in tying up every United States Steel Corporation plant in which the "open shop" order went into effect, excepting the works at Cambridge, Ohio, where a part of the union men yesterday disregarded the Amalgamated Association's strike order and went to work.

The plant at Canbridge is a sheet mill of eleven mills capacity. With this exception President McArdle of the Amalgamated Association declares that not one of the fifteen plants, which the steel corporation is attempting to make non-union, operated even in part yesterday.

JUDGE HOLDS TWO FOR STORE BREAK

Two men who were caught in a sensational manner were held by Judge Burke in the Municipal Court to-day on a charge of breaking into the shoe store at Cambridge and Staniford streets, and were held for the Grand Jury. They were George Stewart, forty years old, and Lyman Miller, thirty five. Stewart was held in the store at the point of a revolver by Charles F. Johnson of Everett, a clerk, who discovered the men, and Millan, who fled, was caught early to-day on Harrison avenue by Patrolman Campbell of Station 3. The break was made last night.

WHITE STRAWBERRY CROP IN ROXBURY

A basket of real white strawberries was sold in West Roxbury, on the old Robert Gould Shaw estate on Cottage street, by Mrs. F. H. Gilchrist. The estate is now owned by the mother of Mrs. Gilchrist. The latter is visiting from Helena, Mont.

The white strawberries have been cultivated on the estate for many years and are believed to have been brought to this country from the West Indies.

"CABBIES" HIT HARD.

The new traffic regulations and the increase of the taxicab in Boston has caused a falling-off this year of about 500 licenses to cab drivers, as shown by the quota to-day by Lieutenant George E. Saxton, who has charge of that work. In 1908 there were granted 1,577 cab licenses. Licenses granted to-day were for 108 taxis, 38 autos for hire and 15 sight-seeing autos.

NEW MOTOR CAR LAWS IN OPERATION TODAY

The above and the park regulations are the only motor speed regulations now effective in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. The many and varied local regulations governing the use of motor vehicles in this State, enacted during the past several years, become obsolete at midnight, and in their stead the general State law regulating the speed and likewise all operation of motor vehicles is in force.

To-day and for several days to come it will be possible for one to tour from one end of the State to the other and have in mind but one law governing the speed and use of motor vehicles, and that law is the one enacted during the last session of the Legislature.

This statute repeals all previous laws, State or local, and in a measure places a damper upon the re-enactment of many of the same, as without the consent of the Highway Commission it will be impossible for a city or town to enforce any speed regulations that it may adopt. The motor law is not so offensive to the tourists as many had imagined, as is shown by this fact, and therefore the probability that commencing to-day all fines levied for violations of the statutes shall be applied to the care and maintenance of State highways. The towns which heretofore have made more or less revenue from the prosecution and sometimes persecution of the motorists will by this measure lose this particular revenue.

The bill is far reaching in its effect and there is an open question if it does not bring about the abolishment of the city of Boston traffic regulations so far as they may be operative against the motorists as the only exceptions noted in the statutes is that which applies to the rules and regulations of the Park Commissioners. However, it is not believed that the motorists' body will try to prove their rights as regards the traffic rules of Boston, as it is well recognized that such rules were necessary for the well being of the city, and the motorists as a whole are inclined to do that which is for the interests of the greater number. In order that the rules can be operative against the motorists all the Street Commissioners need do is to-day accept the present rules as a whole, publish the same in one or two newspapers and ask the Highway Commissioners for a public hearing on the same. The Highway Commissioners would in all likelihood grant the hearing, at which there would be few remonstrants, adopt the rules and they become operative.

It is possible that several of the towns and cities throughout the Commonwealth will take that measure to bring about the re-enactment of the ordinances placing the speed limit at ten miles or less, but that will not be a very easy task, for in every instance it is provided that the Highway Commissioners shall grant a public hearing, and the commission itself pass upon the question.

All signs and other notices relating to the speed, operation and use of motor vehicles which are now in existence are, under this statute, to be removed forthwith.

Hereafter it will not be necessary to display the registration numbers on the front lamps, but it will be necessary for all vehicles to carry a tail light, which at night illuminates the rear numbers.

There will be no merging of the Bay State Automobile Association and the Boston Motor Club, that proposition having been emphatically voted down at the special meeting of the former club

WHEN CY SAW THE "DISTRESS" SIGN

When J was in Cleveland back in the 00s," said George Davis, "I had one long resting spell and often saw the game from the grandstand.

"One day I was up there in semi-disguise, for few people recognized me in my street clothes. One of these know-it-alls got to talking about the game.

"Some batter hit a triple off Cy.

"'How was that?' one of the bunch asked the man who knew it all.

"'Oh,' he said, 'that batter is a farmer, like Cy, and the two of them pitch 'em hard to him. There are regular fraternities in baseball, made up of men who are engaged in the same business or profession.

"And not one of the fifty fans who heard the remark seemed to doubt that it was all the true."

FRANK FOX'S HORSES WIN.

Trainer Frank P. Fox of Combination Park, Medford, established quite a record at the Montreal races, winning two firsts, four seconds, one third and one fourth out of eight starts.

STAR MEETING LIKELY.

The forthcoming Grand Circuit meeting at the new Cleveland, Ohio, track bids fair to eclipse anything of the kind ever held in the Forest City.

The AMERICAN is the great Home paper.

FOWLER IS FAVORITE IN BIG FOOT RACE

Bob Fowler, the Cambridge Marathon veteran, will be one of the big favorites in the fifteen-mile race at the Revere track to-morrow night against a field of picked distance runners for every section.

One of his chief rivals will be Jimmy Lee, the sorrel top star now running around New York and startling the Gothamites by his fast work. It was this pair that made record time for twenty miles in one of the B. A. A. races from Ashland to Boston and killed their chances of winning first prize and had to be contested with third and sixth.

Lee always considered himself faster than Fowler in spite of the latter's greater prestige as a Marathoner and these two are down for another battle on the ten-lap track.

There are several dark horses who will bear watching, Mike Norris of Brookline being one and Weisman of South Boston is another.

NEW CATCHER FOR CUBS.

With Johnny Kling out of the game one of the problems which have confronted the Chicago Cubs' management has been the position behind the plate. Kling is not only a fine mechanical catcher, but he is a wise general, and many a game has been won through the crafty manner in which he watched the men at the bat, as well as his ability to cut off base runners.

Moran has been doing the bulk of the work for the Chicagos, but Chance says that Archer, a youngster whom he has gathered under his wing, will hereafter take his regular turn.

Notes of the Red Sox Game

Both teams got right down to business and scored one run in the get-away inning.

* * *

There wasn't much mystery about Dender's benders for the Red Sox bit freely.

* * *

Collins made a dandy stop off Mc-Connell in the initial inning and although her made a peachy whip to Lewis Ashby made a nice slide and beat the throw.

* * *

Barry's grounder in the fourth session took a nasty hound to Wagner, but Heinie pulled it down with one fist and fer'ied it over to Stahl in time to catch the youngster.

* * *

It was a grand relief from the last three games for yesterday's contest was snappy and full of life all the time.

* * *

With McConnell on first in the opening inning, Hooper pickled one that went between left and centre field and when the fellows managed to get it back to the diamond, Ashby had scored and Hooper had reached third.

* * *

Isn't that Mr. Arellanes the mean man? He only allowed four hits in seven innings and but five in the entire game.

* * *

Arellanes kept the Athletics' bits scattered and but for Speaker's six-play would have scored a shut-out.

* * *

Collins pulled off some classy base running in the first inning. With two down he was on second and Murphy hit to Wagner who got his dates mixed and shot the ball to the plate instead of to first base. By a clever slide Collins got by Carrigan and scored the visitors' first run.

* * *

It don't take McConnell long to pick out the good ones and when the right kind come sailing by, Ashby puts the timber to them. Yesterday he picked off a brace of hitters on his first two attempts and each time they were made on the first ball tossed to him.

* * *

Gardner played a creaking game at third in place of Lord. Harry was handy with the stick, too, and got a most timely single.

* * *

Speaker tried another grand stand play in the initial inning and won it. Collins's single with one hand. Tris didn't get away with the play and the ball went past him. Collins got to second.

* * *

Stahl had almost a record number of put outs. Out of the twenty-seven he had nineteen to his credit.

* * *

The Athletics were pretty lucky to escape a shut-out, for their one run was a pretty cheap affair.

* * *

Collins livened up the eighth spasm with a beautiful catch of Stahl's near Texas League style.

* * *

Ganley let Wagner's single get through him and Heinie biked around the circuit and attempted to get home but a good relay nailed him.

CORNELL IS FAVORITE IN RACE WITH SYRACUSE

BAY STATE AUTO CLUB 24-HOUR RACE

By J. C. KERRISON.

The touring committee of the Bay State Automobile Association, which recently held such a successful race meet, has officially determined to hold a twenty-four hour track contest in the Fall, and made arrangements accordingly. Just the date of this big event has not yet been determined upon, but it is taken for granted that it will so closely follow the holding of the Lowell races as to permit of the cars and drivers participating in the same to engage in the twenty-four-hour event without having to remain in this section for any considerable length of time. Chairman Campbell of the touring committee not as yet made an official statement as regards the proposed meet, nor as regards the financial result of the meeting held on June 17. It is understood, however, that the latter netted the club close to $900 in clear profit.

* * *

The ocean-to-ocean race having been officially awarded to Ford No. 2, the pretest of the Shawmut not having been sustained, Scott and mate are now preparing for the return trip. It is proposed that the two Ford cars, which finished first and third in the long distance event from New York to Seattle, shall return to the starting point, coming over the reverse of the course followed on the outward trip. The same crews that operated the cars on the dash to Seattle will be in the saddle, although the trip will not be made in any such dashing, spirited manner as was the outward journey. The trip will be made in easy stages, the cars stopping for a few hours in each of the larger Western cities where Ford agencies have been established. Although the start of these cars was in New York it is possible that on the return trip they will be driven as far as Boston and perhaps as far as the Canadian frontier.

* * *

The recent action of the Bay State Automobile Association in voting against the proposition regarding amalgamation will unquestionably end all effort in that direction and the two clubs will travel along their individual way to accomplish all that is possible for the general welfare of the motorists at large. The Boston Motor Club will within a week or so make an interesting announcement regarding an endurance run of length and fame.

* * *

The nullification of the present street regulations of the city of Boston in so far as they applied to motor vehicles, is the State auto law which went into effect yesterday, did not seem to cause any difficulty. There was no disposition on the part of the motorists using the city streets to do anything other than follow out the rules which apply to all other vehicles. As a whole everyone seemed to be anxious to recognize the fairness of the traffic rules by adhering to them although they knew full well that no prosecution would follow should they make the wrong turn on a one-way street. There was no friction whatever, the motorists trailing along just the same as they did under the old conditions, and the police had no trouble whatever.

WHAT TANNEHILL GETS FOR A SALARY

"I was sitting up in the grand stand in Chicago one day," said Jack Ryan, that brilliant infielder of the White Sox, "when a bunch of fans in front of me got to talking about the salaries the players got, what the boys did with their money, and so on and so forth.

"'There's Fielder Jones,' said a sort of know-everything spokesman, 'he gets $15,000 a year, and spends $14,000 of it for oil wells. He's worth over a million. So it went on all down the line.

"'Who's this Lee Tannehill, whose name I have seen in the scores sometimes?' asked a woman in the bunch. 'Who is he and what does he get?'

"'Tannehill,' he said, 'has a peculiar contract with the Sox. He gets $75 a week and all of the old balls.'"

WON HIS EIGHT RACES.

Last season the three-year-old trotter Senator Hale, bred by J. M. Johnson of Boston, by Bingen, 2:04¾, was started in eight races on half-mile tracks and won them all, getting a race record of 2:20¼. No colt could have done better. He will be raced this year.

WHAT TEAM CAN STOP THE TIGERS?

"Stop the Tigers, somebody, and do it quick!" is the cry one has only to go to any nook or corner of the American league circuit—except Detroit—to hear. It is a cry, too, that comes from the innermost hearts of the fans.

The Tigers are mighty nice boys, but they are vastly more popular as individuals than as champions of the American league. The fans in Ban Johnson's organization want to see the world's championship flag flying over some American league park. The Tigers have had two chances at it, and have fallen signally.

But what club or clubs can stop the Tigers? The Naps have won one of the six games played with the Tigers this season; the Browns one out of 12; the Sox three out of 13. Thus the other western clubs have won only five games from the Tigers, and have lost 26 to them —an amazing showing.

The eastern clubs have done far better with Jennings' team. The Athletics have won five and lost three; the Red Sox have won three and lost two; the Yankees have won two and lost four; the Nationals have won four and lost eight. Thus the eastern clubs have won 14 and lost 14 of their battles with the Tigers.

Can, then, the four teams that last season finished in the second division come to the rescue this year and give the Tigers the whaling so many fans are praying for?

PACKY TO BOX HYLAND JULY 31

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—"Fighting Dick" Hyland will next be seen in action on or about July 31 with Packy McFarland of Chicago in Colma's arena, providing Promoter Jim's plans do not miscarry. Coffroth is at present upon getting McFarland for his end of the July date and is almost confident of landing him.

Hyland already has signified his willingness to meet McFarland at any time for any distance. Anything and everything, says Dick, "as long as I can get another crack at Nelson."

He seems to have no qualms as to how an engagement with McFarland would result.

Hyland is resting up at the home of his parents and enjoying the congratulations of his friends on the outcome of his fight with Joe Leach Cross last Wednesday.

"There is no place like home," is certainly a true saying when applied to Leach Cross, the game little scrapper from New York. It is true that he had an option on a lot near Billy Shannon's villa, San Rafael, which he was to buy provided he won the fight of Saturday last, but since the verdict of that day was rendered out at Coffroth's everything pertaining to California has taken a decided slump in Cross's estimation.

Cross now purposes returning home to New York and resting up. Save for a battered face and much-bruised body, Leach is none the worse for the great forty-one-round go he put up Saturday. All he needs is rest and a chance to recuperate.

If you had stood by the eighteenth green at Woodland and watched each pair of "pro" golfers as they came in the Massachusetts open meeting, you could tell by the way they picked their ball out of the cup and walked away whether they had made a good score or not. A "pro" never has much to say if things haven't been going his way, while he shows a great deal of interest and talks of his opportunities if his scores are creditable ones.

July 10th is the date set for the team foursome matches between Framingham and Worcester, and the following day the single matches will be played. E. T. Minnon of the former team is playing a fine game of golf this year, and in all probability will meet one of the Schmidt boys or young Coe of the Worcester Club, when the singles are on.

Almost all the local clubs have both morning and afternoon events for their members on July 5. It is queer how many men enjoy spending the Fourth in golf instead of seeking some other form of amusement. There are fireworks enough on the out course if you sit on the clubhouse and keep your eyes open. Drives that resemble skyrockets for the queer directions they take can be seen, and coming out of a bunker followed by the crack of the ball gives one the impression of a young cannon, and the "Ohhhhs" and Ahhhhs" you hear after perfect shots are of the same character as the expressions you will hear in the evening when a roman candle has spit out its most brilliant and beautiful star.

GOLF GOSSIP NEWS OF THE LINKS

J. B. Hylan of Vesper, one of the three amateurs entered in the open state meeting at the Woodland Golf Club, made the fourteenth hole in two. This was the only two recorded on this hole during the meeting, and as it takes an absolutely perfect drive to reach this green that is 250 yards from the tee it is probable that it will be some time before this figure is duplicated. Hylan also had a two on the tenth hole, giving him two twos on nine holes.

STRAIGHT DOPE FOR SPORT FANS

NEXT TO THE KETCHEL-PAPKE fight next Monday afternoon, the most talked of subject among local fight fans is the Johnson-Ross bout in Pittsburg, and the showing made by the world's champion against the big Italian, who was never considered even a good second rater.

They dope it out in different ways, no wise ones have it that even in the poor condition the champion displayed he could have put Ross out in the second round had he wanted to, but let him stay on in order to make the bout contrast more strongly with the nursery game Jeffries and Berger played before the same club recently.

Others just as wise assert that the showing made by Johnson is on a par with that displayed in his bout with Jack O'Brien, and that the fact good man who gets into the ring with the champion will make the black man look like a partly spent dollar bill.

The fact remains that the Italian is a handy, rugged fighter, who is as game as they make them. In nearly twenty fights he has been defeated but twice, the first time being by Mike Schreck, when the Cincinnati boy car was at his best. Schreck knocked him out, and a year later Ross came back and returned the compliment.

The only other knockout registered against the Italian is by Sam Langford, and it is not considered much of a disgrace in fight circles for a second rater to go down for the count under one of the Tar Baby's licks. Many a better man than Ross has been put to sleep by them.

Take it all in all, Johnson's effort the other night is no criterion of what will happen next Monday. The Ketchel-Papke session will not likely take place unless the Michigan man puts Papke away for keeps next Monday.

BY THE WAY, HOW ARE YOU betting on that Ketchel-Papke fight? Get it out of your head that the Michigan assassin, as Willus Britt fondly calls his protege, has an easy task on his hands. Forty-five rounds is a long distance to go, and the Illinois thunderbolt has never taken the full count but once in the four years he has been fighting, and that time at the hands of Ketchel in return for the same kind of treatment a short time before.

Papke knocked Ketchel out in twelve rounds, and Ketchel knocked Papke out in eleven rounds. Papke long ago demonstrated that he has a punch very little inferior, if at all, to that carried by Ketchel.

Now, here's a tip. If you're looking for a take-chance bet, get a little of the short end of that 2 to 1 money that is being offered on Ketchel. Neither man has a cast-iron jaw, and the one that lands the first good wallop will come pretty near winning. Mark them prophetic words.

At 2 to 1, a wager on Papke is a good bet if you lose.

BASEBALL TEAMS REPRESENTING the Henry Siegel Company and L. P. Hollander & Co. plan to mix it up on the Malden High School grounds Monday morning, and that's why you had to wait so long for your change. The bombardment will begin at 10:30 in the morning, and it's not fair to yell "Cash!" when a man has the ball and starts for first.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON IS A GAME old sport and the pleasure of winning a boat race from him is only a short step ahead of the joy it would give his many American admirers to see him win. He has renewed communications with the Royal Ulster Yacht Club and has informed the club that he is willing to challenge for the America cup. Sir Thomas declares that he is ready to race under any modern rules, and will allow the New York Yacht Club the choice of a rule, European or American, with a boat of any size the defenders may prefer.

THE NEW ENGLAND LEAGUE IS getting strenuous and trying to umpires a ball game there is rapidly becoming as dangerous as a job on a dynamite or a dynamite factory.

A few days ago the treasurer of one of the clubs invited an umpire into the dressing room at the close of a game and proceeded to change the topography of his countenance. A number of the players looked on with approval.

At Brockton yesterday Second Baseman Hickman of the home team objected to a ruling of Umpire Rorty and flang one from the hip which landed full on the side of the arbiters speaking apparatus, sending him down for the full count. Fearing the umpire might think he was joking, Hickman jumped on the referee's face with his nice sharp spikes. Other players finally pried the irate Mr. Hickman loose and the game went on.

By the way, as umpire with a name like that should be able to take care of himself. If he can't, he doesn't hail from South Boston.

BIG FIELD DAY HELD AT SOUTH WEYMOUTH

There will be a big field day at South Weymouth on July 5 under the auspices of the Pond Plain Improvement Society on the new field.

A dressed automobile parade will start at nine a. m. and a suitable prize will be awarded the owner of the auto making the best display. Other suitable prizes for each of the events will be awarded.

The track events start at 10 o'clock sharp, followed by a ball game in the afternoon between the Wessagussett A. C. and the Norfolks.

Amusement will be furnished in the evening by a band concert and fireworks, and there will be plenty of food and refreshments on the field all day.

The progrma includes:

Four-mile road race, (men, open.); fifty-yard dash, (boys fourteen years and under.); running broad jump, (men, open.); three-legged race, (boys fourteen years and under.); ball throwing, (men, open.); potato race, (girls sixteen years and under.); shoe and stocking race, (boys eighteen and under.); shot put, (men, open.); egg and spoon race, (girls' race, (girls sixteen years and under.); mystery race, (boys fourteen years and under.); tug of war, (men, open.); tug of war, between Rock Island Club and a picked team, (men, open.); prizes.

HARRIMAN'S MARE WINS FAST RACE

The unmarked mare Quisetta, bred at Forbes Farm, Pinkpospg, by Bingen, 2:06¾, out of Newaday (3), 2:14¼, dam of Totara, 2:09¾, and Bonnie Way (2), 2:29¾, that raced last season in 2:10, showed samples of extreme speed at Tuxedo Park, a half mile track in Orange County, New York, where she won two races of half mile heats, one in the forenoon and the other in the afternoon, in 1:06, 1:05, 1:04½ and 1:04, the last two heats being the afternoon's race. She had a different lot of horses to contend against each time. The mare is the property of E. H. Harriman, the "railroad king." She has no record, but won second money in the American Horse Breeder Futurity in 1905, as a two-year-old, and second in the Hartford Futurity as a three-year-old.

CORNELL ONLY LOST TWICE IN COLLEGE RACES

In the eleven regattas held at Poughkeepsie, Pennsylvania and Syracuse are the only ones that have been able to defeat Cornell for first place.

But the Ithacans have won more times than Pennsylvania and Syracuse combined, the score being six wins for Cornell, three for Pennsylvania and two for Syracuse.

The following shows how the first four crews have finished each year since 1898.

1898—Pennsylvania, first; Cornell, second; Wisconsin, third; Columbia, fourth. Time—15:34⅘.

1899—Pennsylvania, first; Wisconsin, second; Cornell, third; Columbia, fourth. Time—20:04.

1900—Pennsylvania, first; Wisconsin, second; Cornell, third; Columbia, fourth. Time—19:44⅘.

1901—Cornell, first; Columbia, second; Wisconsin, third; Georgetown, fourth. Time —18:55⅕.

1902—Cornell, first; Wisconsin, second; Columbia, third; Pennsylvania, fourth. Time—19:08⅘.

1903—Cornell, first; Georgetown, second; Wisconsin, third; Pennsylvania, fourth. Time—18:57.

1904—Syracuse, first; Cornell, second; Pennsylvania, third; Columbia, fourth. Time—20:22⅖.

1905—Cornell, first; Syracuse, second; Georgtown, third; Columbia, fourth. Time —20:29.

1906—Cornell, first; Pennsylvania, second; Syracuse, third; Columbia, fourth. Time—19:36⅘.

1907—Cornell, first; Columbia, second; Navy, third; Pennsylvania, fourth. Time —20:02⅘.

1908—Syracuse, first; Columbia, second; Cornell, third; Pennsylvania, fourth. Time —20:34.

Another interesting study of previous regattas is the comparative standing of the different 'varsity eights, in which are considered the number of races rowed, firsts, seconds and third places won. By counting first place 5, second 2 and third 1, fixing the percentage of each. It follow:

	VARSITY EIGHTS.
	Races.	Fls.	1	2	3	Pct.
Cornell	11	59	6	2	3	.700
Syracuse	4	14	2	1	1	.583
Penn	11	15	3	1	1	.345
Wisconsin	11	12	0	3	3	.273
Navy	1	3	0	0	1	.300
Columbia	11	10	0	0	3	.091
Georgetown	3	4	0	1	1	.100

Learning by Travel Well Worth While

By ELBERT HUBBARD

THE Latter Day Saints, otherwise known as the Mormons, have a plan of sending out their best young men all over the world a-proselyting.

The actual object of sending out the young men is not so much to convert the world as to educate the young men. The missionary work is merely an excuse, although this fact is not emphasized to the young men, because we learn by indirection and not when we say, "Go to, now watch us enlarge our cerebrum!"

The Japanese government has men in every corner of the civilized globe. These young men return in a few years with ideas that form a leaven which is changing the mental complexion of the country.

The Oneida Community sent their young men on the road as salesmen. They gathered gear as they went and became citizens of the world, yet never lost their distinctive qualities, nor did their loyalty for their religion become lukewarm.

I have known Jews to send their sons out with a pedler's pack for a like reason, and with a like result.

The German System

The compulsory military system of Germany, with its moving garrisons, has its advantages. It takes the young man out of his peaceful dead level village and shows him another side of life before he becomes a confirmed buckwheat. It teaches him manners and the use of soap. In the army, as in the world, you have to be decent—or fairly so.

Man is a migratory animal.

We learn by keeping in motion; by travel—by trans-plantation—in moments of joy and in times of grief.

Young men and women should be allowed to try their wings. The desire to "go somewhere" has its proper and natural use. Do not oppose it. Also, do not insist on the chaperon. The chaperon habit is a bad one, since it may become chronic and make the chaperon a necessity.

The youth of fifteen or sixteen, of either sex, who is allowed to go away a hundred miles or so on a visit or a business errand will often get more good out of the trip than he would get in a year at a boarding school.

We grow through making decisions.

That young man of meagre means who could not afford a wedding trip for two, and so sent his bride away on a tour alone, was no fool.

The girl who cannot go single in safety is not fit to work in double harness.

Real Benefit of College.

The actual benefit of college does not come so much from the curriculum as from the change of environment. New people, new scenes, new conditions with which to cope—these are the things that work for growth.

The act of going into a dining car or restaurant and selecting from the bill of fare a dinner is a lesson in life which many a well-bred man of 40 still grown, has never been allowed to gain.

So the plea is this: Give your children liberty; let them develop their self-reliance through the exercise of choice. And of all methods or plans of education travel, without headchess chaperonage, is the best.

It is better to be a citizen of the world than a graduate of a college.

The Mormon plan of sending out the best and brightest young men on a two years' tour of the world is a very wise one.

It makes him cosmopolitan, instead of an urbanite.

Such an experience gives a considerable respect for the world that did the heid-polishing. The novitiate is then ripe for a life's work, a work which often requires great initiative, invention, patience and the many qualities that give much and ask little.

Cast the bantling on the rocks.

Let him acquire an education instead of being presented with one on a silver tray.

And that's a part of the process that goes to make a man.

OLD MEN LOVE WHILE YOUNG MEN DIE

By NELL BRINKLEY

Some old wife of a man is the shining mark for Cupid

"Love and Death once ceased their strife
At the Tavern of Man's Life.
Called for wine, and threw—alas—
Each his quiver on the grass.
When the bout was o'er they found
Mingled arrows strewed the ground.
Hastily they gathered them
Each the loves and lives of men.
And the fateful dawn deceived!
Mingled arrows each one sheaved.
Death's dread armory was stored
With the shafts he most abhorred;
Love's light quiver groaned beneath
Venom-headed darts of Death.
Thus it was they wrought our woe
At the Tavern long ago.
Tell me, do your masters know,
Loosing blindly, as they fly,
Old men love while young men die?"

AND that is why. You've wondered, haven't you?—I have.

Why it is that young chaps—strong and merry-hearted, lithe-handed and straight, in love with life, full of fire and ambition, blinded with the light of their dreams and spreading a little of the glamor of them for the eyes of the old to see through, fresh-spirited, filled with the grace of the things they mean to be, jollying the old world along and making it swing on its way with hope in its heart, making it laugh and forget its grieving, bringing new and big ideas up from a fresh brain and giving them to the world for the making of more wonders in it, a growing worker, something closer to God and newer come from Him, with a very dear young wife loving him and whom he loves; a man—young and with all his life stretched out before him like a road that will make a cleaner, more peaceful way through the earth—dies?

And that some tottering old wife of a man with legs that ought to have long been tucked into the chimney corner, peering eyes that can look nowhere but behind him (and that isn't always a pleasant road to travel back upon), all the fire gone out of him, his candle of ambition burned out, dreamless, giving nothing—not even a little mirth; very far from God and scorched with experience, the springs of his brain and heart dried up and grown over, his all given to the world, and life and the love of it almost ready to die in him, that he gets one of Cupid's own arrows in him, when Death draws back to take a shot at him, and he dares to Love?

You've wondered, haven't you—why?

This little Rhyme is the best "Why" I know.

NELL BRINKLEY.

When Cupid Takes a Hand Don't Rebel

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

MAN proposes, Cupid disposes—and man proposes.

I know of a young man who was starting off on a long-looked-forward-to fishing trip.

His sister begged him to defer the trip for a week, because she had a school friend coming to visit her.

"I'm sorry, Sis," he said. "I'd like to meet your friend, but I've planned so long to take this trip, and I'm all ready; I simply can't give it up."

And just at this moment Cupid, having nothing else to put his mischievous mind on, elected to take a hand in the game.

"It's too good an opportunity to miss," said he. "Here are two young people perfectly suited to each other, and if I don't attend to this matter, no one else will."

So he thought for a long time, and finally he hit upon a plan.

"I hate to do it," he said regretfully, "but it seems that nothing but actual incapacity to go will keep this tiresome young man from his old fishing trip."

He Sprained His Ankle

That day, when the young man in question sprained his ankle, he blamed it on his little brother, who had left a toy block on the stairs. For how was he to know that Cupid was busying himself in other people's business?

The next day his sister's friend arrived, and sat by the sofa and talked to him, and read aloud.

The third day he forgot to grumble and the fourth day he was ready to bless his little brother and the toy block.

By the tenth day everything was settled and, Cupid was ready to move on and make more history.

"Just think," said the young man, as he and the girl sat talking in the twilight. "If it had not been for that angel child Freddy leaving his block on the stairs I would have gone off on that wretched trip and we might not have met for months.

"And that," said Cupid, who sat perched on the back of the sofa, "is all the credit I get from the ungrateful mortals!"

Cupid Will Only Laugh

And if Cupid has made up his mind to bind one of your business, while there is no use in fighting against him. You might just as well give in gracefully, for he will win, you may be sure of that.

You can run away and you can hide and you can declare yourself a woman hater. Your excuse won't count one little pin with him.

He will only laugh and say: "Young man, your time has come. I've found your mate and you must come to her with me."

And as he is working for your happiness, you had better go along like a good little boy.

CHAPTER XIII.—Continued.

"The Presbytery Has Lost Nothing of Its Charm, Nor the Garden Its Brightness."

"IS he still at the chateau?"

"Yes; he hardly ever quits it. He sleeps there, as I do, at the request of Monsieur Stangerson, who has done for him what Monsieur Robert Darzac has done for me. In spite of the accusation made by Larsan that Monsieur Stangerson knows who the murderer is, he yet affords him every facility for arriving at the truth—just as Darzac is doing for me."

"But you are convinced of Darzac's innocence?"

How He Won Darzac Over.

"At one time I did believe in the possibility of his guilt. That was when we arrived here for the first time. The time has come for me to tell you what has passed between Monsieur Darzac and myself."

Here Rouletabille interrupted himself and asked me if I had brought the revolvers. I showed him them. Having examined both, he pronounced them excellent, and handed them back to me.

"Shall we have any use for them?" I asked.

"No doubt; this evening. We shall pass the night here—if that won't tire you?"

"On the contrary," I said with an expression that made Rouletabille laugh.

"No, no," he said, "this is no time for laughing. You remember the phrase which was the 'open sesame' of this chateau full of mystery?"

"Yes," I said, "perfectly.—The Presbytery has lost nothing of its charm, nor the garden its brightness.' It was the phrase which you found on the half-burned piece of paper among the ashes in the laboratory."

"Yes; at the bottom of the paper, where the dame had not reached, was this date, 24th of October. Remember this date. It is highly important." I am now going to tell you about that curious phrase.

"On the evening before the crime, that is to say, on the 23d, Monsieur and Mademoiselle Stangerson were at a reception at the Elysee. I know that, because I was there on duty, having to interview one of the savants of the Academy of Philadelphia, who was being feted there.

"I had never before seen either Monsieur or Mademoiselle Stangerson. I was seated in the room which precedes the saloon use ambassadeurs, and, tired of being jostled by so many noble personages, I had fallen into a vague reverie, when I scented near me the perfume of the lady in black.

Perfume of "the Lady in Black."

"Do you ask me what is the perfume of the lady in black? It must suffice you to know that it is a perfume of which I am very fond, because it was that of a lady who had been very kind to me in my childhood—a lady whom I had always seen dressed in black.

"The lady who, that evening, was scented with the perfume of the lady in black, was dressed in white. She was wonderfully beautiful. I could not help rising and following her. An old usher gave her his arm, and, as they passed, I heard voices say: 'Professor Stangerson and his daughter.' It was in that way I learned who it was I was following.

"They met Monsieur Robert Darzac, whom I knew by sight. Professor Stangerson, accosted by Mr. Arthur William Rance, one of the American savants, seated himself in one arm-chair, and Monsieur Robert Darzac led Mademoiselle Stangerson into the conservatory. I followed.

"The weather was very mild that evening; the garden doors were open. Mademoiselle Stangerson threw a lace shawl over her shoulders and I plainly saw that it was she who was begging Monsieur Darzac to go with her into the garden. I continued to follow, interested by the agitation plainly exhibited by the bearing of Monsieur Darzac.

"They slowly passed along the wall abutting on the Avenue Marigny. I took the central alley, walking parallel with them, and then crossed over for the purpose of getting nearer to them. The night was dark, and the grass deadened the sound of my steps.

"They had stopped under the vacillating light of a gas jet and appeared to be both bending over a paper held by Mademoiselle Stangerson, reading something which deeply interested them. I stopped in the darkness and silence.

"Neither of them saw me, and I distinctly heard Mademoiselle Stangerson repeat, as she was refolding the paper: 'The presbytery has lost nothing of its charm, nor the garden its brightness!' It was said in a tone at once mocking and despairing, and was followed by a burst of such nervous laughter that I think her words will never cease to sound in my ears.

"But another phrase was uttered by Monsieur Robert Darzac: 'Must I commit a crime, then, to win you?' He was in an extraordinary agitated state. He took the hand of Mademoiselle Stangerson and held it for a long time to his lips, and I thought, from the movement of his shoulders, that he was crying. Then they went away.

"When I returned to the great gallery," continued Rouletabille, "I saw no more of Monsieur Robert Darzac, and I was not to see him again until after the tragedy at the Glandier. Mademoiselle was near Mr. Rance, who was talking with much animation, his eyes, during the conversation, glowing with a singular brightness.

"Mademoiselle Stangerson, I thought, was not even listening to what he was saying, her face expressing perfect indifference. His face was the red face of a drunkard.

"When Monsieur and Mademoiselle Stangerson left, he went to the bar and requested his usual drink. I joined him and offered him some little service in the midst of the pressing crowd. He thanked me and told me he was returning to Amerie three days later, that is to say, on the 26th (the day after the crime).

Where Rance Met Them First

"I talked with him about Philadelphia; he told me he had lived there for five and twenty years, and that there he had met the illustrious Professor Stangerson and his daughter. He drank a great deal of champagne, and when I left him he was very nearly drunk.

"Such were my experiences on that evening, and I leave you to imagine what effect the news of the attempted murder of Miss Stangerson produced on me—with what terror those words pronounced by M. Robert Darzac, 'Must I commit a crime, then, to win you?' recurred to me.

The Punctilious Pirate

By C. B. Quincy

SYLVESTER DEGRAINE was a pirate in the good old piratical days.

When the waters of the sea were bywords for their ruthless, bloodcurdling ways;

When the hapless hands of the trader felt their heart strings tauten and crack

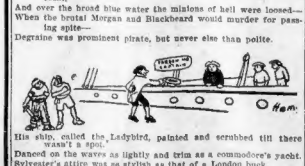
As they sighted a sail in the offing and made out that her colors were black.

In that era of blood and booty, when the key was a robbers roost,

And over the broad blue water the minions of hell were loosed—

When the brutal Morgan and Blackbeard would murder for passing spite—

Degraine was prominent pirate, but never else than polite.



His ship, called the Ladybird, painted and scrubbed till there wasn't a spot,

Danced on the waves as lightly and trim as a commodore's yacht.

Sylvester's attire was as stylish as that of a London buck,

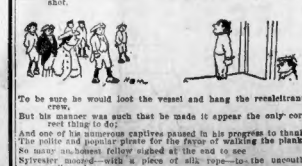
And the men were seagoing dandies togged out in immaculate duck.

When the Ladybird closed on her quarry Sylvester was always polite—

He would hail with a "Pardon me, captain, but will you surrender or fight?—

I'm sorry indeed to disturb you, but my men would like what you've got"—

And then with the air of a courtier proceed to the powder and shot.



To be sure he would loot the vessel and hang the resolutrant crew,

But his manner was such that he made it appear the only correct thing to do;

And one of his numerous captives paused in his progress to thank The polite and popular pirate for the favor of walking the plank.

So many an honest fellow sighed at the end to see

Sylvester mocked—with a piece of silk rope—to the uncouth gallows tree.

And this tale of a modulated pirate is as true as ever to-day,

For the public will seldom holler—if robbed in a stylish way.

The Summer Man; His Ten Commandments

By HANK

FIRST—Thou shalt not believe all that thou dost see in Summer advertisements, for many a modest puddle hath been called a lake, and often "fresh eggs and poultry from the farm" bear a clitfied flavor.

SECOND—Thou shalt not pose as a rich man's son, lest on thy return to the city the ribbon counter exposeth thee to the gibes of girls thou hast tried to bootwink.

THIRD—Thou shalt not puff out thy chest and boast of muscle, lest the farmer's son challenge thee to wrestle and slit upon thee with ease, whilst Summer girls hear ridicule upon thee.

FOURTH—Thou shalt avoid games of poker on the train so that thy dough may last long in the vacation days the boss hath given thee.

FIFTH—Thou shalt not place too much credance in the summer girl's "yes" for when thou art returned to thy job in the city thou art soon forgotten.

SIXTH—Thou shalt not covet a farmer's life, for a steam heated flat in January hath the country beaten forty ways.

SEVENTH—Avoid indulgence in applejack, for verily it compareth with Maine fire-water as molten lead doth with ice cream soda.

EIGHTH—Thou shalt not rock the boat, for the services of Satan are recruited e'en from among those that doeth so.

NINTH—Use thine own judgment whether to appear before thy lady love in a bathing suit, for remember that Summer clothes covereth a multitude of nature's mistakes.

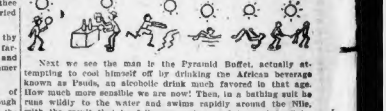
TENTH—Thou shalt not spend all they vacation money, for verily seven lean days must pass after thy return before pay day cometh around again.

The Life of Pharaoh Smith

By Wex Jones

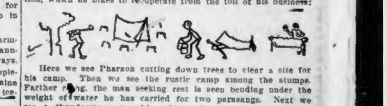
STRANGE lights are thrown upon the stupidity of the ancient Egyptians by some tablets recently discovered in the tomb of Pharaoh Smith, where excavations are being conducted under the auspices of the Greek letter fraternity, 47 Sigma, which considers Pharaoh Smith, on the evidence of his initials, to have been its founder. It is only fair to Pharaoh to say that this is the only evidence connecting him with such folly. The popular name of the fraternity, "Postscripts," is just as good a guide to its origin.

The newest inscriptions to be deciphered show that the early Egyptian was far from possessing any cat sense. In the first picture we see an Egyptian suffering from the heat. The object above him is the sun, not a soft-shell crab, and the man is waving a fan in a vain attempt to cool himself.

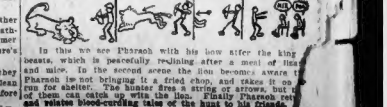


Next we see the man in the Pyramid Buffet, actually attempting to cool himself off by drinking the African beverage known as Psuds, an alcoholic drink much favored in that age. How much more sensible we are now! Then, as nothing will be runs wildly to the water and swims rapidly around the Nile, with the result that he falls unconscious and is carried off by the ambulance corps.

A second tablet gives a vivid picture of Pharaoh on a vacation, which he takes to recuperate from the toil of his business:



Here we see Pharaoh cutting down trees to clear a site for his camp. Then we see the rustic camp among the stumps. Farther along, the man seeking rest is seen bending under the weight of water he has carried for two parasangs. Next we see a thunderstorm smashing down the camp and drenching Pharaoh, who is last seen in bed, the exercise by his side. The early Egyptians led too strenuous a life.



In this we see Pharaoh with his bow after the king beasts, which is peacefully reclining after a meal of figs and mice. In the second scene the lion becomes aware that Pharaoh is not bringing it a fried chop, and takes it on the run for shelter. The hunter fires a string or arrows, but none of them can catch up with the lion. Finally Pharaoh returns and relates blood-curdling tales of the hunt to his friends.

Little Bobbie's Pa

MA & PA had a other argument last nite. The nite beefore last Pa calm hoam with sum groceries & one (1) of the packages wich he heid in his arm was full of sum stuff wich Pa called Oleo-margerine.

What in the world a this? sed Ma. I thought I tould you to bring hoam two (2) pounds of fresh butter. I know that is what you tuzd me, Pa sed, but I have here a substitute for butter. It looks better & lasts longer, Pa sed. You taste it if you want to.

No thank you, sed Ma. It seems vary strange to me, Ma sed, that on pure salary you cannot afford to buy the real thing. Why in the world shud you cum hoam with imitashuns?

My dear, sed Pa, this is a age of imitashuns. We have imitashun statesmen, imitashun legis-la-tchures, imitashun diamonds for our wives & imitashun watches for ourselves. We have imitashun stars in the stage & imitashun lady comedians giving imitashuns of naughty-ty imitating Festa Tilley. We have in Columbus avenue, ware we used to dwell, a imitashun ball room, Pa sed.

I wasn't brought up to eat bad butter, sed Ma. It goes agenust the grain for me to eat butter that is not right from the churn. In fack, Ma sed, I think I shall have to send you back to the stoar with this dope. If you stsrt now you will be back in time for dinner, Ma sed.

So Pa took the oleo-margerine under his arm & went out agenn to git sum butter. He dident want to go, but Ma wanted him to go, so he went. When will you be back? sed Ma, wen Pa was going out of the door. I will be back anon, Pa sed. When is anon? sed Ma, one hour from now or one hour from daybreak?

I will be back anon, with the real butter, Pa sed, & that is all that he wud say. Then Pa took his little package of oleo-margerine & went out in the dark.

Ma & me waited a little while & then we ate (8) our dinner, & Pa didn't cum at all. Maybe him & the grocery-man had a argument about the oleo-margerine, sed Ma. I never like to judge mine fother harshly, Ma sed to me.

Hours & hours passed, & Pa dident cum. Then he calm. He had the package of oleo-margerine under his arm & the rest of it was runing down on his coat.

Greetings & salu-tashuns, Pa sed to us. Here I am, back at the old homestead, with my bundel of butter. Then Pa tarted for to sing:

Sum fly to my bosom my poor stricken dear,
I think I can hear your hert flutter,
The oleo-margerine lies near my hart,
I suppose that you think it is butter.

That will do, sed Ma. You eaters oh-ecks to the loud noise. I think it is about time that you went to bed, sed Ma. Then to you want me to take this oleo-margerine to bed with me? sed Pa. If I shud go to bed with this oleo-margerine & it shud melt ill over my face & smother me, then I wud be buried in the shaim that shrouds me, Pa sed. Perhaps, after all, you wuddent care, sed Pa.

Then Pa went to bed & Ma told me that she wud eat oleo-margerine after this instead of sending Pa out for butter.

Pa snored all nite.

THE FRUITS OF VICTORY

Society Gives Yachting Parties for the Little Children of the Poor

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

These are days when society is doing nothing more strenuous than floating about in beautifully equipped yachts endeavoring to keep cool and enjoy life to the fullest.

In their pursuit of comfort they are not entirely selfish, however, for on board nearly every yacht afloat these days one may find a generous number of Boston's poorest children. All day long they are feared for and entertained by the damsels of the smart set who this year more than ever are finding joy through service to the needy.

Margaret Thomas, Ruth Anthony, Mrs. Lars Anderson, Frances Sortwell, Rosamond Bradley, Mrs. S. V. R. Crosby and Alice Daland are a few who have come to the aid of the tiny sufferers the past few days and taken them for long and delightful cruises.

* * *

Any number of the smart young girls in the Boston set went to Stockbridge to-day for the dinner-dance to be given there this evening by Mrs. John Swann, whose son Dr. Arthur W. Swann, is to marry Miss Susan Ridley Sedgwick in Stockbridge on Saturday. Most of the guests at the dance will remain over for the wedding.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer, who are at their country place in Lancaster, will leave there early the coming week for their Newport villa for the Summer. Miss Sally Thayer, whose beauty and charm have combined to make her a leader in Boston society, has become equally popular in Newport. The Countess Moltke, who is with the Thayers at Lancaster now, will go with them to Newport. Mr. and Mrs. William Patten (nee Thayer) will shortly go down to their Newport cottage, which adjoins the Thayers'.

* * *

Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin Tenney and family of Marlboro street are soon to leave their Boston residence for Magnolia.

Benton Miller and his sister, Miss Florence Miller of Marlboro street, are to pass the remainder of the season at Marblehead, where they are to vary shore life with occasional trips on the Kuren, Mr. Miller's yacht.

Mrs. Godfrey L. Cabot, who has been ill at her home in Cambridge for some time, is now almost entirely recovered. She goes this week with her family to Hillcrest farms, where they will spend the remainder of the season at the Hubbard cottage.

Miss Helen M. Winslow and Miss Alison Winslow of Cambridge are going to spend a short time in Wilton, N. H. They leave Cambridge to-morrow.

* * *

Colonel and Mrs. E. H. Woods of Commonwealth avenue have been making quite an extended stay in Stockbridge.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Scott (Maude Ladin) of Boston and Newport sailed for Europe yesterday. They are to be away about two months, and will travel in Italy, Germany and Switzerland.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Stoughton Bell of Cambridge are the guests of Mrs. Bell's mother, Mrs. W. H. Lewis of New York. Mrs. Lewis has been entertaining them at Smith's Farm, Smith's Point.

* * *

Senator W. Murray Crane was at his country place in Windsor yesterday. His stay will be very brief at this time as he returns to Washington on Monday evening.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Tucker of Chestnut Hill, Brookline, are to spend the remaining Summer months at Manchester. They will be the guests of Mrs. Tucker's parents, Colonel and Mrs. E. M. House of Austin, Texas, and Miss Janet House, who are settled in a comfortable Manchester cottage for the season.

* * *

Among the tourists from Boston who are stopping at Greene Inn, near Narragansett Pier this week are: Mrs. Boylston Beale, Mrs. Van R. Crosby, J. Torrey Morse, Thomas L. Bradley, Horace B. Ingalls, Frank M. Sawtell, Jr. and Mrs. F. B. Harrington, the Misses Harrington, Robert H. Taft, a cousin of the President; L. S. Hooper, H. W. Pierce, James C. Fairchild and T. R. Pending, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Culton of Brookline are summering in Newport.

* * *

The Misses Fabyan of Brookline, sisters of the late George Fabyan, are settled at the Brownland cottage on Sea street, Manchester. Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Fabyan and their family have taken the Walter Cabot place at West Manchester, and Dr. and Mrs. Marshall Fabyan (Eleanor McCormick) will spend the remainder of the Summer at Smith's Point, Manchester.

* * *

Frederick H. Sanford of Brazil has been in Newport visiting his brother, Lieutenant-Colonel James C. Sanford. He left to-day for a short visit in Boston.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Sherburne of Brookline have been entertaining Mrs. Sherburne's mother, Mrs. W. Hall Harris of Baltimore, for a number of weeks. Mrs. Harris will go a little later in the season to the North Shore cottage she has taken for the remainder of the Summer. She will be joined a little later by Postmaster Harris and Mr. and Mrs. W. Hall Harris, Jr.

* * *

One of Boston's distinguished guests this week was Vice-Admiral J. Uriu of the Imperial Japanese Navy. He came to Boston to visit N. Masuda, his kinsman, who has been doing special work at Harvard University. The Touraine has been the Vice-Admiral's headquarters. Previous to his Boston trip he was the guest of Rear-Admiral John P. Morrell, of Newport, president of the Naval War College.

* * *

F. L. Burnham of Cambridge has sailed for Naples, where he will meet a party of friends who have planned to join him for a yachting cruise of a number of weeks.

Mrs. Richard Watson Gilder has been stopping in Lenox recently. She goes from there on Saturday for a visit in Vermont.

* * *

On returning from abroad in September the Austrian Ambassador, Baron von Hengelmuller, and the Baroness will go direct to Lenox where they will spend several weeks in mid-Summer.

Philosophy and Flirts

By WINIFRED BLACK

A STAID college professor has arisen in a horrified community and declares that one thing that was the matter with Harvard students is that they don't flirt enough.

"That," says the staid professor, with oh, such a regulah twinkle in his wicked little eye, "is the reason the Vassar girl isn't just right—she doesn't flirt enough."

Go on with you, professor, arrah now, it's joking ye are, and not one of us can be fooled by it.

Harvard boys don't flirt—well, you go and ask any of the merry, merry maidens in any of the scintillating scarets what they think of a Harvard boy as a giddy flirt—and you may change your opinion, professor.

And as for the Vassar girls. The most outrageous flirt I ever knew in my life was class president at Vassar, and the way she could sit out under the stars and talk soul affinities to a little knock-kneed Latin professor one evening, and play the banjo and sing "Love Me Like I Likes to Be Loved" to the Harvard senior the next was almost a-startling.

Flirt? Why, any boy or girl worth the name can and does flirt; that's one of the things they live for.

Take one of those studious, calm-eyed collegiate girls with you on a little trip to a party of maiden ladies, professor. She will talk Schopenhauer and Kant to you till your head swims—but you just notice the sudden gleam of interest in her eye when some little shiny-haired junior with loud socks and a college pin happens along.

Flirting isn't a matter of brains, professor. It's a matter of temperament.

You can't kill the coquetry in a born flirt with all the colleges that ever had a curriculum.

I'm glad of it. Aren't you?

Surely Our Big Sale Fits In Fine For The Fourth

So nicely does it fit in with the spirit of the occasion that we advise every Fourth of July shopper who is looking for exceptional values at prices sharply reduced—to investigate. To buy clothing of Tobias, Greenthal & Mendelson's standard at prices so low is a bargain occasion of importance. This fact was borne out by the immense throngs that came last Saturday.

When we admit that the crowds are too great for us to handle, things have got to come pretty swift. That's just the way they came last Saturday. The overflow would give a rousing day's business to ordinary stores

MEASURING TENTHS.

IT is not common to find a person who can correctly estimate the lapse of a single second. But, as an English writer remarks, in these days of speeding automobiles, the exact time when each of two colliding vehicles must have occupied particular spots may be a matter of great importance. In a recent experiment a car took nearly two seconds to stop after brakes were applied, and in that time it moved nineteen feet. So even fractions of a second are important. One can train one's self to estimate even tenths of a second. Try it with a watch, and it will be found that it is just possible to count ten in the lapse of a single second. But one must count very fast to do it. — Youth's Companion.

PENNSYLVANIA LINE SPENDS VAST SUM

PITTSBURG, July 2.—The Pennsylvania lines' official statement, just issued, shows that in the five months ending with May 21 this year the expenses were $6,530,000 higher than for the corresponding period of last year. During the first five months per mile comparatively few trains were in operation in either freight or passenger departments, and thousands of employes in the general office, shops, train service and other departments were laid off indefinitely. Thousands of men have been reinstated this year.

STEEL WORKERS GET BIG RAISE

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 2.—The 10 per cent. wage increase granted by the Cambria Steel Company, affecting about 10,000 men, is now in effect. The payrolls will thus be increased $1,000,000 a year. The 10 per cent. increase in wages of 7,000 employes of the Pennsylvania Steel Company is in effect. The Harrisburg Pipe and Pipe Bending Works also granted their 200 employes an increase of like amount.

KAISER IN MIDAIR BATTLE—Intense description in the final chapters of "The Man Who Stole the Earth" in the SUNDAY AMERICAN.

500 BUSINESS MEN IN PLAN TO BOOST CITY

More than five hundred business men of Boston are to-day planning to promote the plans of the Chamber of Commerce committee to begin at once a business boom which will double or treble the export trade of the port of Boston.

The general outline of the project was put before them yesterday, when bankers, brokers, heads of maritime interests, railroad men, manufacturers and men representing every branch of commercialism and industry, were taken down the harbor in the steamer South Shore, on a trip to see just how the water front needs development and the chances for the same.

Many of these men have never seen the harbor in such a complete manner before. All the points were indicated to them, and with the aid of maps and the explanations made by megaphone men, they became acquainted with what it is proposed to make the best harbor in the country.

Talks on Boston's Needs.

Stationed at various points about the boat were Captain F. H. Murrell, J. Richard Carter, R. P. Rodgers, L. K. Thurlow and Charles Skentleberg, and it was their duty to impart all the information which the party needed through megaphones.

After the harbor had been toured and every point on the main water front inspected the boat passed down Broad sound channel and swung around to Nantasket. The party landed and went to the patio garden at Paragon Park, where a banquet was served and prominent men spoke on the needs of Boston. President James J. Storrow of the Chamber of Commerce presided, and the principal speakers were Charles S. Hamlin, Ames S. Crane, David G. Fres, Colonel Edward Burr and Congressman George P. Lawrence.

Aid from Congressmen.

Mr. Hamlin was the first man called upon by President Storrow. Mr. Hamlin said that the new Chamber of Commerce is now well equipped to do such a work as had been shown to be necessary on the trip. He was sure that Congressmen Lawrence and O'Connell and the other representatives would do all in their power to develop the commercial interests of Boston.

"Our duty from this on," said he, "is to double, treble and even better the export trade of this port. Of the amount of such trade from Boston 75 percent. comes from interior competing territory and could go just as well to Baltimore or New York. Our work must be to lead the railroads which have given us our present position, to enlarge this trade, and by giving this assistance we can treble our exports in the future.

"Any one with eyes could see during our interesting trip about the harbor what wonderful possibilities there are in the hundreds of acres of land on the shores of Dorchester Bay. It is for this organization to develop it, and as to-day we celebrated a little the victory of Harvard over Yale I hope in a few years we may be able to meet to celebrate over a commercial and industrial victory in a race with New York, Baltimore and other ports. You have got leaders with such men as Mr. Storrow, Mr. Rothwell, Henry M. Whitney, W. A. Ritchie and others, and with a long pull and a strong pull and a pull all together we cannot fail."

Friend of Harbor Speaks.

Congressman Lawrence, who was introduced at the man to whom more than anyone else the credit of obtaining the $8,000,000 appropriation for the harbor is due, first paid a tribute to Mr. Storrow as a man of ability and particularly capable as head of the Chamber. He then said:

"Foreign countries," he continued, "give great consideration to their waterways, and it has been claimed on good authority that Germany's great commerce is due to her cheap transportation rates.

"We should heed this lesson from over the seas. But we must have more than appropriations. We need definite plans and policies. Good work has been done in the past, but the charge has been made that we have not always secured the full benefit of the appropriations made because the work has been done piecemeal and the officers in charge have been changed so often. The charge is true, and our demand should be for a definite policy and businesslike methods.

"Your harbor is one of the great assets of this State, and we shall be neglecting our duty if we do not see that it is developed to its fullest capacity. It is a work of importance to the whole nation. We have our thirty-five-foot channel, so let us provide for our other needs. It is for this organization to take the lead and for the rest of us to co-operate with you to the very best of our ability."

Mr. Crane, foreign manager of the Boston & Maine, told of his recent study of conditions at foreign ports, and Mr. Ives, head of the New England Bureau of Transportation, linked the importance of this trip with those recently made into Maine and New Hampshire.

Colonel Burr of the United States engineering corps, who had charge of the harbor improvement work, called attention to the importance of keeping up the coastwise trade.

WALL ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

WALL STREET, New York, July 2.—Many traders are complaining that financial authorities refuse to make point-blank prophecies of a higher or lower market. These traders forget that the market is always uncertain during the month of July No one, however familiar with high finance, can say what the weather will be. All that any honest person can say now is that stocks ought to be bought rather than sold, because the situation has a more bullish perspective than bearish ones. The whole market depends on the crops, which are in splendid condition up to date. But every crop knows that three days of hot winds in Kansas or two days of heavy rains and winds on the ripening wheat fields might destroy hundreds of millions of value.

$ $ $

Based on the present outlook there is going to be a corn crop of 3,500,000,000 bushels, and a total wheat yield of 725,000,000 bushels. These are very liberal figures. The chance of crop damage should buy stocks, for if there is damage prices will be up from ten to twenty points higher by the 31st of August. One significant fact in this connection is that the leading banks are insisting that their clerks take vacations during July, so that the full force may be on hand in August. This shows that the bankers expect to have something going on in that month. What everybody expects often means, even in Wall Street, pessimists to the contrary notwithstanding.

$ $ $

The tisc has displayed its resiliency unmistakably of late; so plainly, in fact, that there is no longer room for reliance a fortnight ago, is now hardly visible.

It is just as well to have these periods of quiet, they demonstrate that the public is similar, taking one period with another, is as anomaly in the United States.

$ $ $

The public idea is that a stock is lowpriced because it sells for a small number of dollars per share. Everybody in Wall Street knows that Union Pacific is the cheapest stock in America, everything considered. Lackawanna, Southern Pacific, Great Northern and Delaware & Hudson compare favorably with it. But the public will not buy these stocks on account of the heavy margin demanded by brokers to-day. The reason the stocks selling for a small number of dollars per share have become popular, and that mining companies expect to have heavy trading in their shares as soon as the bull campaign is in full swing.

$ $ $

Morgan's relations with Chicago & Great Western have had a peculiar effect on the market for that bankrupt concern. Small investors in all parts of the country are picking up the stock, paying for it in cash. The chief reason for this seems to be that there is only a limited number of issues that the ordinary citizen can trade in. All leaders in the railroad list are selling above par, where the interest charges absorb a small income. The public seems to have millions of dollars with which to buy low-priced stocks.

$ $ $

Third Avenue has broken to a new low record for the movement, but the short interest is very cautious about attempting any covering. The proposed new stock issue "when issued" at 30, which was also a new low record for it. Interborough-Metropolitan has sold off on announcement of the plans of the company for new subways. The Street figured that these plans would cause the issue of many millions of new securities.

Morgan's share in the local traction system is now thoroughly understood by the public, and, as he is working in harmony with Rhoads and Hawley, the traders expect a good market in traction shares before long.

$ $ $

Declaration by the Lackawanna of a 15 per cent. stock and a 50 per cent. cash dividend has awakened the standard shares in Wall Street. Action by Lackawanna had been expected so long that it had no influence on the stock of the company. It is of influence on the general market only because it shows that one of the great assets of the coal railroads really are to be distributed to the public. The natural rumor following Lackawanna's action is that Reading will do something. Reading's stock accordingly is strong.

$ $ $

Steel shares are also strong, selling within a small fraction of the high record price for the common. The idea of bonding the Gary plant to replenish the treasury just before an increase of the dividend on Steel common is unpopular among bankers, and if it was intended it will probably be postponed for a time. The increase of dividend that is talked about for Steel common will be paid out of the current earnings, which are now understood to be at the rate of $120,000,000 a year net, with increases recorded every day.

Labor troubles in the tin-plate mills of the trust has no influence on the market, because there are no mills idle which can be worked with non-union labor to make up any loss occasioned by closing of the unionized mills. Owing to the profit-sharing system of the trust, labor strikes are not popular among its men.

$ $ $

Harriman has begun his financial operations, taking action about two weeks earlier than anyone expected. The first movement is the sale of $26,000,000 of Southern Pacific convertible bonds owned by the Union Pacific treasury. These bonds were the share of the Union Pacific in the recent issue of $82,000,000. Sale of these bonds to bankers at a profit of $2,000,000 furnishes the company a fund of spot cash with which to pay for New York Central, Atchison and the Chicago & Northwestern stock picked up in the market by Harriman and taken by him on option from the Vanderbilts.

$ $ $

Those persons who thought the reports published in this column of big Harriman financing were premature are beginning to wake up. The really important financing must not be expected for at least two weeks. This initial sale is an unimportant preliminary, for $26,000,000 does not by any means measure the financial condition of Harriman.

$ $ $

One theory of the market which found favor among the bulls was that a number of speculators have sold out in the past couple of days in the expectation of getting their stocks back at a lower level on the eve of the holidays, and that the largest interests, who had stood aside while the selling was going on, would now see to it that little opportunity was afforded for repurchase.

DEFICIT FAR UNDER OFFICIAL ESTIMATE

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Treasury officials are pleased at the present showing of the government finances. Ordinarily a deficit in the government revenues of $80,811,156, as shown by the statement, would not be a matter for congratulation. Nevertheless, at the close of the fiscal year 1909, the treasury officials express much gratification that the official estimate of a deficit of $114,000,000 has not been verified.

SHIPBUILDING SHOWS DECLINE

WASHINGTON, July 2.—During the year ended June 30 1,362 merchant vessels of 232,816 gross tons were built in the United States and officially numbered by the Bureau of Navigation, compared with 1,506 of 538,627 gross tons during the fiscal year 1908, which was the record year of American shipbuilding. This year's output was the smallest since 1898.

READING IS STOCK LEADER

By T. C. SHOTWELL.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Cutting of the Lackawanna melon stimulated interest in the stock of the Reading company in Wall Street to-day, on the theory that the time was not distant when that Company would follow Lackawanna's example. As a result of this belief trading in Reading was active and an advance of two points to 158½ the first half hour of trading was reported.

Expectation of announcement of more Harriman financing caused strength in Union Pacific and Southern Pacific, both issues advanced nearly a point. Erie displayed strength and rose half a point, while Pennsylvania advanced fractionally more. That the general public has no faith at present in the reorganizations of railroad companies now under way was illustrated by the fact that Third Avenue, Western Maryland and Chicago Great Western, all of which are being organized, were under pressure and liquidation. Western Maryland declined to the new low record of 9¾, while Third Avenue touched 18¾.

LOCAL STOCK MARKET FIRM

STATE STREET, July 2.—Very little business was transacted in the local stock exchange this forenoon. The market was quiet but firm and was in a state of marking time over the triple holiday, as the stock exchanges will close to-night until next Tuesday morning. There was some short covering in Steel common at the opening, which put the price to 69¼. Later it eased off slightly.

There was demand for Superior & Pittsburg, which sent the price up almost a point from last night's closing to 15⅜. This company is fast liquidating its floating debt. Amalgamated was just under 83, but dealings were very light.

The extremely hot weather during June proved beneficial to the traction companies. The Boston Elevated's increase over June last year was $56,000, or about 4½ per cent. The Massachusetts Electric companies' gross increase was over $30,000, which was the largest month's gain for eight months.

The Boston & Maine Railroad reported May operations to-day which showed gross earnings of $3,339,027 or $454,883 more than May of last year. The surplus above the month's proportion of charges and dividends was $223,594, which compares with a deficit of $107,258 last year.

POET OMAR AIDS ELOPERS

ST. LOUIS, July 2.—James Clark, a soldier stationed at Jefferson Barracks, eloped with the young wife of W. F. Balster, a farmer at Bethalde, Ill., today. Balster chased the runaways and found them seated in a pasture under a shade tree. All unconscious that Balster was near, Clark was reading to his lady love lines from Omar Khayyam, the Persian poet. Balster, infuriated at them, controlled his anger and listened. The soldier read con cupcrop with the distant drum.

"I'll have you sent to a military prison," raged Balster, springing out of his hiding place. He forced them to go with him to a justice of the peace and then had them arrested. Balster got bail for his wife.

"And Omar beside me singing in the wilderness," she repented, dreamily. Then, turning on her husband, cried:

"I'll stay in jail rather than go home with you."

"Ah, take the cash and let the discredit go," quoted Balster, and finally the lady went home.

Weeping Over Adam and Eve

Why Not Let Each One Believe What He Can—And Each Respect the Beliefs of All Others?

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

It was very sad the other day in the Presbytery of New York when, after discussion and weeping, three brethren were licensed "to preach the gospel according to the doctrines of the Presbyterian church, IN SPITE OF THE FACT THAT THE REVEREND YOUNG BRETHREN DID NOT BELIEVE AS MANY THINGS AS THE OLDER PRESBYTERIANS THOUGHT THEY OUGHT TO BELIEVE."

These young men, it seems, had questioned some of the miracles. And one of them at least had doubts as to the authenticity of Adam and Eve. In the back of this reverend young brain there seemed to be a picture of lady monkeys swinging from limbs of trees by their tails and slowly starting the human race on its travels.

There was lacking in that reverend brain the conventional picture of Adam and Eve, Adam coming first and finding himself lonely, and then Eve appearing, with long hair, and with an earnest, sweet expression, to keep him company.

These young men were truthful, told what they believed and what they did not believe. After long discussion, and quite a few tears, it was decided that they might preach the gospel, with a sort of materialistic, Darwinian adulteration.

The sad and unnecessary part of the whole thing was THE TEARS. Why should there be weeping and gnashing of teeth about any of the beliefs of us poor, foolish, little human creatures? Why can't we all tolerate one another? Why not each for himself obey that broad-minded, Biblical order, "Prove all things: hold fast that which is good"?

Let each man think about Adam and Eve and the miracles reverently and earnestly. Let each "prove all things" for himself—the only possible way of proving things. And then let each "hold fast that which is good" in HIS opinion, while respecting all those that prefer to hold fast something else.

It was sad to see good, earnest Presbyterians shedding tears down the fronts of their nice black frock coats. For there was real suffering back of those tears.

You may say that we have improved. We have. There was a time, not so long ago, when those three young gentlemen, substituting a lady monkey for Eve, would have been not only expelled from the church, but burned alive into the bargain. They would have been put upon the rack, stretched and then burned, to take the criminal tendency to investigate out of them.

It is better, of course, for a few good Presbyterians to weep and then allow the young doubting Thomases to go out and preach than for stern old Calvin to burn alive the noble Servetus.

But we ought to be beyond all foolish intolerance. Each of us who has a religion in which he believes absolutely should be glad of it, and stick to it—nothing is so comfortable as a system of belief, whatever it may be, that frees you from doubt and saves you the tiring process of speculating on the unknowable.

Every man's ideas should he as he chooses to have them. Every sensible man knows that—WITH THE EXCEPTION OF THE PARTICULAR RELIGION TO WHICH HE BELONGS—all religions are simply phases of human development.

A modern philosopher, who should know better, writes that a savage, malevolent religion always produces savage and malevolent men. He got it exactly upside down. The fact is that savage and brutal MEN always produce savage and brutal RELIGION.

An old Greek, wiser two thousand years ago than we are, put the thing in a few words when he said, "If the camels had a god, that god would have four legs and a hump."

Different kinds of men have different kinds of gods, and each lends to his god his own vices and what he imagines to be his own virtues.

And each kind of man arranges punishments and rewards in accordance with his own ideals and his sense of justice.

If you see a wild, dancing African savage eating a piece of half-decayed rhinoceros, with a chief that murders the wife he is tired of and priests that bury a living human being under the foundation of each important hut, YOU DON'T HAVE TO BE TOLD THAT THOSE SAVAGES HAVE AN ATROCIOUS AND VILLAINOUS GOD, TO WHOM THEY SACRIFICE HUMAN BEINGS—a wooden god, with pink eyes and green teeth.

Each religion—excepting always THE ONE TRUE RELIGION (pick it out for yourself)—is simply a reflection of one line of human development.

The Mohammedan has a heaven full of charming ladies that never grow old.

The Indian has a heaven full of bisons, large, fat and easily shot—their heaven also has squaws to do the work, including skinning and cooking the bisons.

The influential men of old Biblical days lived the life of an Oriental court. In that Oriental court the king sat on a throne, the courtiers around him, praising him to the skies, AND AS A REWARD FOR THEIR FLATTERY THEY ESCAPED ALL WORK AND WORRY.

Outside of this royal court, and below it, poor human beings were working under the lash to feed the drones of the court.

Those old men liked that kind of a life, and their idea of a heaven was simply an exaggeration of the palace of an Oriental potentate—heaven and bliss for those INSIDE the court, that did not work, but flattered the ruler—sorrow and torment for those outside, that worked under the lash to keep the court going.

Pity the man who doesn't believe that this universe, including the little speck of dirt on which we live, is ruled by justice, kindness and mercy.

Pity the poor, self-sufficient little atheist who refuses to believe what he cannot see or measure with a tape line.

Pity the man who doesn't believe that the soul is immortal and will exist eternally in an eternal universe: that we are rewarded for our good deeds now and later, and punished for our bad deeds.

Pity those that lack the imagination and faith that lend beauty to this universe, make life full of joy and death full of hope.

Pity them, BUT DON'T BURN THEM OR DENOUNCE THEM. The[illegible] has gone by for all that. It makes little difference whether Eve [illegible]ully developed, long-haired Aryan type of blond lady, tempted [illegible]ake, or an anthropomerous chimpansee that choked dozens of [illegible]n they tried to eat her baby.

[illegible]ortant thing for us human beings to-day is to have a broth-[illegible]r each other, and especially FOR EACH OTHER'S [illegible] were intended to think for ourselves, or the power of [illegible] have been given to us. Let us be patient with each [illegible]re mental babies, whose infantile guessing is not [illegible]orew.

I DON'T CARE TO GO TO THE BEACH, DEAR- IT'S TOO HOT!
WELL, STAY IN THE HOUSE AND SWELTER IN THE HEAT, I'M GOING!
LOOK AT THOSE IDIOTS RUNNING! YOU'D THINK THERE WAS ONLY ONE CAR IN THE WORLD!
WHY DON'T SOME OF YOU CHUMPS GO INSIDE WHERE THERE'S ROOM!
HEY, YOU SLOWPOKES! - GET A MOVE ON YOU! I DON'T WANT TO WAIT ALL DAY FOR A BATHING SUIT!
WHAT? A DOLLAR FOR A DINKY LITTLE STEAK LIKE THAT? IT WOULDN'T FILL A TOOTH!
AND MY WIFE WAS GOOSE ENOUGH TO STAY HOME IN THIS HOT WEATHER!

Children, the Nation's Best Asset

Written for the Americas

By DR. C. H. PARKHURST

THE children are a nation's most valuable asset. This is a conviction toward which the heart of our people has been gradually warming.

The topic is therefore a pleasant one to write upon, for the matter is broader than any sectional or partisan interest, and is wide and generous enough to absorb into itself the sympathies of all classes and conditions of men, of all types of political or economic opinion.

We all believe in the children, even if we have only recently commenced to realize that the significance of the child, in its relation to the family, only prefigures in a small way the larger significance of the relation in which it stands to the nation.

So that we may say that the conviction of the child's value as a national asset is not only one toward which the heart of our people has been gradually warming, but one also of which the intelligence of our people is beginning to become distinctly appreciative.

Truth Conquers Through the Centuries

It is always interesting and encouraging to observe how, as the years and centuries go by, the minds of men gradually but surely incline toward the truth of things and how, by short but steady steps they move in the direction of estimating men and things at their just worth.

The opinions of people cannot be crowded, but they do have a most impressive and fascinating way of gradually working themselves out into sweetness and light, swept forward by some sort of tidal influence that entices us all into beliefs that are unanimous and that are true.

It has been so in this matter of children.

They have, in times past, been treated as an almost negligible quantity—objects of interest, especially if belonging to the well-to-do classes—but otherwise as a kind of human weed that is only too certain to abound on soil that is prolific; or at best as a human appliance and convenience, to be worked, even though wasted and worn by use and abuse.

It is not necessary to suppose that the indifference or even maltreatment to which, in times past, and even in some instances in times present, children have been exposed, has been due to any intentional or conscious cruelty on the part of those from whom they have so sadly suffered.

We should rather suppose that, in all the centuries past, there have been few parents and few employers of children that have really been designedly cruel; for cruelty is not felt by us as such except in the measure that our own hearts have learned the sweet lesson of sensitiveness to other's sufferings.

Besides that, the abuse of childhood, especially in some departments of labor, had been for so long a part of the system of industrial life that only minds that were exceptionally compassionate were equal to the strain of breaking loose from the despotism of inherited usage; for an abuse that has been a long time maintained comes easily to acquire for itself the character of justice.

The scheme urged by Boston women to establish a children's bureau, to be maintained as a distinct department of the Federal Government, is the first distinct recognition of the nation's relation to the child as such, as well as of its peculiar responsibility for the child, and of the value of the child considered as a national asset.

In all respects, our country has been singularly wasteful of its resources.

A sense of abundance, incident to our known wealth along all lines of national possession, has operated to make us regardless in our way of spending that abundance.

And it is to the credit of ex-President Roosevelt that attention has been so sharply called to our spendthrift habits.

And it is to the credit of the Governors of numerous States, brought together by Mr. Roosevelt to confer upon the situation, that there has been so vigorous an attempt made to solve the problem of economy in such commodities as iron, coal, oil and timber.

The propriety there is in having the Federal Government, as such, act in regard to commodities of that description lies in the fact that it is not primarily a matter of local but of national concern.

Whatever affects, favorably or unfavorably, the condition of the country at large the general government is bound to interest itself in.

It was on that principle that a while ago the Secretary of Agriculture went South to discover to what extent public interest was threatened by the appearance of the boll weevil.

Children the Best Asset in the Nation

Now the children count infinitely more, in any true inventory of national wealth, than do either oil or timber; and the unfeeling and debasing influences that contribute to destroy or to corrupt child-life are a hundred times greater menace to national strength and prosperity than are locusts or boll weevils.

It was in reference to such commodities as those just mentioned that Dr. Draper, Commissioner of Education in the State of New York, said in a recent address delivered in Chicago:

"Resources alone can never provide the ballast necessary to the equipoise of a nation. The vital factors in a nation's existence are human. In the economy of nation-building the overwhelming concern will have to be about boys and girls."

All of this opens to the intelligent patriot a field of service, both bewildering and fascinating by the rich variety of its opportunities.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

THE WAITER AND HIS TIP

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I am a great admirer of the editorials in the BOSTON AMERICAN, but, commenting on your editorial of Tuesday, I can't see why a person should pay the proprietor of a restaurant for what he eats and then pay the waiter for serving him. Why is the waiter any more entitled to a tip than the cook, or the dish washer or the laundress? I am sure that any one of them is more important than he is, when it comes to serving a good meal—and that they are underpaid, too.

If the waiter has so much intelligence as to deserve more money than he gets regularly, why doesn't he demand from his employer what he ought to receive. If he is worth $3 a day his employer ought to pay him that, but not the customer who has already paid full price and good profit for the meal.

The theory of the tip in the waiter's case may be all right, but until the shoe salesman, the fruit clerk, the saleswoman, and all underpaid employes get tips regularly, as their due, I can never think that the waiter's tip is anything but charity.

SHOCKING!!

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Is it right that the Licensing Board of the city of Boston should continue to hold up or refuse to grant licenses for the sale of soda and confectionery to the small dealers on Sundays? Would it be throwing Boston wide open to grant licenses to reputable citizens of Boston to sell soda, ice cream and candy on Sundays under the new law? Should they not either grant licenses or reject them? When a matter of such importance to men who have invested their small earnings in such a business is up should the Board not meet and act on their applications?
